Churchill-American Deal May Require Explanation

TRENCH TRANSIT

While Cpl. James W. Rezek, Lake Andes, S. D., (rear) keeps a sharp lookout for Communist snipers, Sgt. 1/c Ralph I. Washington, Jan. 19. — (AP)—Winston Churchill, a Stout, stooped, Briton puffing a long cigar, trudged from the Washington scene today, weighted with age and new triumphs and some deals that will take explaining to the folks back home.

The prime minister's 11th hour compromise acceptance of an American naval command in the Atlantic and his endorsement of U. S. policies in the far east seemed certain to draw sharp questioning when he faces parliament to account for his Washington mission.

His lasf official act before boarding the noon train for New York was to shake hands with 49 wounded Korean war veterans at Union Station. He stood before them for a moment and then said, "You will always remember you played

EMPLOYMENT IN U. S. IMPROVED

Labor Department Reports Tight Manpower Situation Is Eased

Washington, Jan. 19. —(AP)— The labor department reported today that the tight manpower situation has eased off temporarily but that jobs will be harder to fill than ever by springtime.

Secretary of Labor Tobin announced results of a nationwide survey showing that employment has decreased in a number of large areas, even though it is still high for the nation as a whole.

Sixteen areas were found to have less employment this month than in December. Two were found to have more.

Certain important production centers — like Detroit and Flint, Mich., and Fall River, Mass., — have serious unemployment, while some others can't find enough workers.

Tobin said a principal reason for the "labor surplus" in some areas is the growing shortage of materials for civilian industry. He noted also the continued lack of consumer demand for some lines of goods. Finally, there is a normal wintertime lull in construction, food processing, textiles and tobacco.

Tobin predicted, however, that "the overall outlook is for a tightening of labor supply as seasonal forces expand job opportunities this spring and summer and as defense production gains momentum."

MOVES TO STALL TAX LEGISLATION

GOP Leader Wants Aid Of Nation's Best Fiscal Brains

Washington, Jan. 19. —(AP)— A Republican leader moved today to sidetrack all tax legislation until the situation can be studied with the aid of the nation's "best fiscal brains."

Representative Reed (R. - N. Y.) said he will ask for a special meeting of the house ways and means committee to be held next week to decide upon such a study.

He is the ranking Republican member of the committee, which handles all tax legislation.

"We cannot go on taxing and spending without destroying our own nation and the free world, too," he said in a statement.

"I propose that we launch the study immediately; that we call on the best fiscal brains in the nation to assist us."

Meanwhile, Senator Connally (D.-Tex.) said in a statement that he remains unconvinced a new tax boost is needed. Connally is the senior Democratic member, under Chairman George (D. - Ga.), of the tax - writing senate finance committee.

"Our people cannot stand additional tax burdens, and I shall vote against a general tax increase," he declared.

Connally also said that while he has no objection to the closing of loopholes in the tax laws, as President Truman has urged, he does not regard depletion allowances for oil and gas producers as loopholes. Mr. Truman is expected to renew his suggestion, previously turned down by congress, to reduce the allowances.

Connally termed them "wise and just" and said he is "confident that

Reds Charge Allies With Violations

Munsan, Korea, Sunday, Jan. 20. —(AP)—A new Communist charge of Allied aerial violation muddied still further the bogged - down Korean armistice talks Saturday.

The negotiators return to Panmunjom today, however, for subcommittee sessions at 11 a. m., (9 p. m., E. S. T., Saturday).

Selman Activation Called Possible

Representative Otto E. Passman told the Monroe Morning World yesterday that the prospects of reactivating Selman Field looked encouraging.

Passman said he had flown to Washington for a conference with Brig. General Eaton and announced that the conference was very successful. Passman said that Eatnon told him he would send an air force representative to Monroe on Jan. 23 to negotiate with the local committee for additional land if proper contracts could be made there was a strong probability the field would be reopened.

Passman said that re-opening of the field is contingent upon two things, that the contracts could be made plus passage of a budget for expansion of the air force. He added that he had been assured by the committee chairman that the budget would be approved.

Death Toll Growing Larger As Violence Sweeps Tunisia

MUD SLIDE PERILS HILLSIDE HOMES

A fresh deluge in waterlogged southern California caused this landslide next to the home (upper left) of Paul Franklin in Pacific Palisades in Los Angeles, Calif., and threatened destruction of his swimming pool. The soggy earth slid across the coast highway and blocked it to traffic. All highways in and out of Los Angeles county were reported impassable after three days of torrential rains. (AP Wirephoto.)

Tunisian Nationalists Demanding Independence From French; Police Battling To Keep Order As African Crisis Worsens

Paris, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Reports filtering out of strife-torn, censorship-clouded Tunisia tonight described new violence that brought the death toll in the current crisis to more than a dozen.

there was little official news. But what scattered reports did reach Paris agreed that outbreaks were continuing — and getting more violent — between Tunisians demanding their independence and the French - sponsored police trying to keep order.

Gunfire rattled at Mateur, a village southwest of the Mediterranean port of Bizerte.

Tusisian delegates, here to press the United Nations for intervention, said they had been told by telephone from Tunisia that seven persons were killed and 25 were wounded in that village.

The Mateur incident started, they said, when police and French troops tried to break up a demonstration organized by a Tunisian Nationalist party, the Neo-Destour, in support of a Tunisia - wide general strike.

KENNON BEGINS RUNOFF RACE

Judge Says First Primary Has Repudiated Administration

Judge Robert Kennon, opening his runoff campaign for the Louisiana governorship, said at Homer yesterday that the first primary had "thoroughly repudiated" the state administration and its policies.

Administration Candidate Carlos Spaht planned to open his campaign with a statewide radio broadcast in New Orleans on Monday night and start stumping the state about Wednesday.

Spaht, top man in the nine-candidate race in last Tuesday's Democratic primary, and second - place Kennon will meet in the Feb. 19 runoff.

The candidate for the lieutenant governor race against State Rep. John McKeithen, who ran on the Spaht ticket, remained in doubt. With 12 precincts still missing, an unofficial count in the office of the secretary of state showed 138,045 votes for Elmer Conner, candidate on the Kennon ticket, and 138,005 for State Sen. C. E. Barham, who ran on the ticket headed by U. S. Rep. Hale Boggs.

It appeared that the lineup for the lieutenant governors' race would not be settled until the official returns were available from the office of Secretary of State Wade Martin Jr.

Kennon said at Homer that the only obstacle to his victory in the runoff primary is "the misconception that everyone can sit back now and watch Kennon go in without any trouble."

Voters in the first primary thoroughly repudiated the state administration and its policies, Kennon said. Adding that he now had the support of gubernatorial candidates who were eliminated last Tuesday.

"Only 22.3 per cent of the total vote in the first primary went to the state administration," Kennon said. "This means that more than three out of four of our citizens voted against the state administration and its policies.

"Every other independent candidate had opposed it openly. It just happens that I am the only one left to carry on the fight."

Kennon said two planks of his platform were similar to those of James McLemore, Alexandria businessman and one of the defeated candidates now backing him. Kennon described the similar planks as a new road system supervised by a board of businessmen and organization of the welfare department on a businesslike basis.

Kennon also spoke at Arcadia, Farmerville, Jonesboro and Ruston. He planned to rest at Minden, his hometown, today (Sunday) and resume his stumping tomorrow.

At Jonesboro Kennon reiterated his plan for a state highway system operated on a business basis by businessmen and civic leaders.

"You know that no road is built in Louisiana unless someone goes to Baton Rouge and crawls on his hands and knees and almost crawls on his shirt buttons to get a little handout," he said.

"That's because the governor, under our present system, has too

LEGION FIGHTING FOR KOREAN VETS

Want Veterans Of Korean Conflict To Get Same Breaks

Washington, Jan. 19. —(AP)— The forthcoming debate over extending the G. I. bill of rights to Korean war veterans will find the American Legion plumping for "the same break the veterans of World War II got."

Cecil H. Munson, spokesman for the legion's national rehabilitation commission, said so today. He plans to present to the house veterans affairs committee — during hearings scheduled to begin early in February—a case for an outright extension of existing legislation.

A score or more bills have been introduced on the subject, some of them calling for drastic changes which the legion opposes.

Still other recommendations are expected from a special committee, headed by Rep. Teague (D.-Tex.), which recently wound up a two-year inquiry into abuses of the training program of the Veterans Administration (V. A.).

Munson told a reporter the legion has examined changes already pro-

Negroes Flood Courthouse To Register For Election

Negroes desiring to register in time to vote in the Democratic runoff election February 19 jammed the second floor of the Ouachita parish courthouse Saturday in heavy throngs that lasted throughout the day.

Observers from the offices of the Monroe News-Star and World noted innumerable instances in which the laws regarding registration of voters were disregarded.

In spite of strong efforts by Miss Lillian Collins, registrar of voters, to see that a legal procedure was followed, large numbers of cards were filled out in the hall outside the office of the registrar of voters. Inside the police jury room, which was opened into the regular office of the registrar because of the crush of would-be registrants, several apparently educated Negroes stood at tables and directed word-for-word the filling in of the registration cards, although the registrar stated that each person must fill in his own card without assistance.

At the time a News-Star — World observer first called the attention of a deputy sheriff to the fact that a large number of Negroes out in the hall had registration cards in their hands and were either filling them out themselves outside the registrar's office, or were having someone elso do it, it appeared that nearly half the Negroes outside had been provided with cards.

Three Negroes who were questioned said their cards had been filled out by a white man whom they did not know. An inspection of the cards showed they were all filled out in the same handwriting, except for the scrawled signatures, which were plainly in the handwriting of persons not accustomed to writing. When asked why they did not fill out their own cards, one of the Negroes said he had rheumatism and that it hurt him to write anything more than his name. The others made no reply.

When asked how they got cards outside the office, three other Negroes said they were handed to them by the deputy sheriff. When

Panther Prowls In LaFourche

A panther about eight and one-half feet long attacked a horse in LaFourche swamp yesterday about six miles east of her.

A. M. Moore, owner of the horse and a trapper in the swamp said he had left his horse and walked about 150 yards to check his trap when he heard the struggle. The panther slashed the horse down the hips before the cat fled.

Moore, who has been a trapper for 61 out of the 71 years his life, said this was the first panther he had seen in the LaFourche since 1925.

He traps with his grandson, "Cleo" Moore, and he said they had been seeing tracks that resembled a panther's for a week but thought it might be a large dog's track.

TRANSPORT PLANE CRASHES

Sandspit Airport, B. C., Jan. 19. —(AP)— A crippled DC-4 transport plane, homeward bound from the far east with 40 servicemen and three crew members aboard, undershot this Canadian airport early today and crashed into the sea.

Seven men were rescued by a rowboat guided through the darkness to them by their shouts.

Eight bodies have been recovered after being washed ashore by the changing tide. Plane salvage efforts were rushed.

The returning passengers were military personnel from Korea and Japan. Identities were withheld pending notification of next of kin. The plane was U. S. bound from Tokyo via Shemya, in the Aleutian Islands, and Anchorage, in Alaska and was headed for McChord (Wash.) air force base near Tacoma.

Whether the service men aboard were returning veterans of the Korean war was not divulged.

A pilot who stopped off here before continuing to McChord, said he was told all 43 aboard the plane had managed to get out of the belly - landed aircraft, but found themselves without life rafts.

The pilot, R. E. Nelson of Seattle, said he was told that the ill-fated transport's co - pilot, Kenneth Kuhn of Seattle, went back to the plane cabin for life rafts.

But the plane, bobbing on 15 feet of water, sank before Kuhn could reach the rafts and get out as water poured through the door. Nelson said.

Northwest airlines said the plane carried two 20 - man liferafts and one 10 - man raft.

Nelson quoted a doctor there as saying it would be impossible to fly the seven survivors out for sometime because they were suffering from shock and exposure.

The tail and one wing of the plane still were visible above the water. A line was put around the tail of the plane by salvage crews.

"It looks doubtful whether there are any other survivors," a Canadian official said.

The plane rested on a gravel bar in about 15 feet of water some three - fourths of a mile offshore. One wing and the tail poked out of the water.

The plane, a DC-4, was owned by Trans-World Airlines, leased to the Military Air Transport Service (M. A. T. S.) and operated by Northwest Airlines crewmen.

There were 40 passengers and three in the crew aboard. The crew consisted of John Pfaffinger, 39, Kent, Wash., the pilot; Kenneth Kuhn, 36, Seattle, co-pilot, and Jane Cheadle, stewardess,

The theft of the money was reported to have occurred on January 17 of this year, according to a local Federal Bureau of Investigation agent.

Bank officials refused to make any statement on the charge, except that "all information will have to come from the Federal Bureau of Investigation out of New Orleans." Upon contact by an Associated Press agent, the New Orleans office said no information could be released "at this time."

Coroner N. G. Nasif said Arnaud was gaging oil in a fuel tank on a cat walk about 25 feet above ground when the iron gauge he was using came into contact with a high tension line. Dr. Nasif said the shock caused him to fall.

Arnaud was a native of Jonesville and had been employed by the power plant since it was established in 1926. His father, the late Louis Arnaud, was one of the engineers that put the plant into operation.

He is survived by two brothers, Lee Arnaud and Louis Arnaud, both employees of the Municipal Power Plant in Jonesville, one sister, Mrs. M. H. Sloane, Sr., of Shreveport and a number of neices and nephews.

capital of Pyongyang on Friday afternoon.

The Communists termed it "a grave protest." Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, United Nations command spokesman, said the charge would be investigated. But he added that the Allies did not view the charge "with any more gravity than we have viewed past allegations."

U. S. Marine Col. James C. Murray, Allied liaison officer who received the Red protest, said later he did not regard it as any threat to break off the armistice talks.

The Communists asserted that, despite joint guarantees of safe conduct, two trucks and a jeep were attacked and two Communists soldiers were wounded.

The agreement provides that 12 Communist vehicles, marked with cherry red panels on the hoods, may use the Kaesong-Pyongyang road unmolested in daytime - six northbound and six southbound.

med Badra, prevailed on the Arab bloc in the United Nations to ask U. N. Assembly Pres. Padilla Nervo of Mexico to try personally to stop the bloodshed in the north African protectorate.

The Tunisian Arabs already have asked the security council to step in and resolve the dispute between Tunisia and the French protectorate government. The dispute is over whether Tunisian Arabs shall have complete autonomy in handling their local affairs, or whether these affairs shall be managed partly by Frenchmen.

The present disturbances began the middle of this week when French officials banned a scheduled congress of the Neo-Destour (New Constitutional party), the center of the Nationalist movement.

When Tunisians demonstrated against the ban, police charged their processions and rioting followed. At least six were killed and the number of wounded was estimated as high as 150.

Neo-Destour leaders then threatened to hold their congress anyway, whereupon police arrested a group of top Nationalists and flew them out of Tunis to a bleak coastal village called Tabarka.

Nationalist sources said some 500 others also were arrested.

To protest the arrests, the Nationalist - led Tunisian trade union called a strike to try to paralyze the country.

An additional fifty arrests were reported today, all of them Tunisian women Nationalists who tangled with police in the capital city of Tunis.

NEGROES

told what the Negroes had said the deputy sheriff denied it. The three Negroes were then asked to go to the deputy sheriff and to repeat their statements on where they had obtained the cards. This they did, telling the deputy sheriff he had given them the cards. The deputy sheriff made a denial and the Negroes again affirmed their statement.

At that time the door to the police jury room was open and there was a stack of registration blanks on a small table just inside the door. The Negroes were asked if they had reached in and taken the blanks off the table. They replied that they had not and again asserted the blanks had been handed to them by the deputy sheriff.

When attention of Miss Collins was called to the fact that there were a good many registration cards out in the hall, the registrar went into the hall and personally took a number of cards out of the hands of the Negroes. She then instructed the deputy sheriff to seize all cards in the hands of Negroes outside the registrar's office and to require them to get a new, unmarked card to be filled out inside the office. The deputy then took possession of the cards in the hands of the Negroes in the hall and told them they would be required to get and fill out new cards. At that time the Negro instructors at the tables were still telling the registrants how to fill out their cards, but, as far as could be observed, no one was then filling out cards for anyone else.

A spectator was approached by a Negro registrant, who said: "Boss, if you'll keep this office open till 5 o'clock I can get a lot more voters up here to register and vote for Judge Spaht. We gotta get him elected to save us colored folks."

Among quotations of what the Negroes were saying among themselves was "We sho gotta 'lect Mista Spaht."

A check of voting in the governor's race in Ouachita parish showed that while in many white wards the balloting was more than four to one against Spaht, in the wards of predominately Negro population, Spaht received favorable ballots of nearly four to one.

When questioned about the registration, Sheriff Bailey Grant said he had complied with a request by Miss Collins to place a deputy at the door of the registrar's office because of the crowds. Ordinarily there is no necessity for a deputy, as people come in a few at a time and are handled by the registrar. It is only on rush occasions that a deputy is required. Sheriff Grant said that after providing the deputy, he paid no further attention to the registering and that the nearest he passed to the registrar's office was when he went from his office on the second floor down to the ground floor on going out for lunch.

"The governor can tell you, 'Yes, you can vote like you please but if you don't vote like I say you won't get any road money,' " Kennon said.

"We're going to change that system to keep our governors from having so much power," he said. "We're going to set up a board like the dock board in New Orleans and we're going to use a little common sense in our highway planning."

Kennon predicted that in the runoff he would receive more than 100,000 votes in the city of New Orleans alone and predicted his opponent would get "somewhere between 20,000 and 40,000."

your part in a great and honorable world event."

From the parking court where the veterans were gathered the prime minister, who had told President Truman goodbye yesterday, marched with the slow, heavy pace of his 77 years acros Union Station concourse and past the iron barred gate to a private car assigned him. British Ambassador Sir Oliver Franks and Secretary of State Dean Acheson said their formal farewells aboard the train.

On the back platform Churchill himself called "Bye, Bye" to scores of persons who had gathered behind ropes and the grilled fence. He held up his fingers in the famous "V" sign that was his trademark in World War II.

Some watching his departure wondered whether it might be the end of his last journey to Washington where on many occasions over a decade he has mightily influenced the course of history.

Churchill, according to the evidence of published agreements and private information from informed officials, is going home with most but not all that he initially sought.

But he did not get everything, and in some respects he paid a price for the furtherance of his overriding objective — the closer alignment of British and American policies throughout the world.

Both Churchill's associates and those who sat with Mr. Truman during last week's White House talks agreed that in this major project Churchill had been successful — that not since the end of the war had the men who run the two governments eliminated so many irritants or achieved such a deep understanding.

Churchill came here Jan. 5. Altogether he spent about seven days in the capital and held half a dozen policy discussions with Mr. Truman. He broke off the period of conferences to visit New York and Ottawa. His departure today will be followed by a stopover in New York until Tuesday night, when he boards the liner Queen Mary for the voyage home.

The results of his mission may be summed up in terms of what Churchill got, what he gave, and what he did not get. And American officials feel that the record should be read in terms of his pre-conference declaration that he was seeking no single result so much as closer overall Anglo - American relations.

Here is the way the record looks on major points:

Churchill got —

1. A guarantee of the right to purchase one million tons of U. S. steel this year in a deal assuring this country of Malayan tin and increased quantities of aluminum. Actually, with Britain's dollar shortage, the U. S. will have to give the steel if it is to go. But this is a matter of financing involved in still open problems of aid to Britain that Churchill did not negotiate on.

2. A written commitment that the U. S. will not use its A-bomb bases in England in an emergency without consulting the British government. Churchill had set great store by this.

3. A specific agreement with Mr. Truman for "close consultation" on any developments increasing the danger of World War. This is part of the overall closer understanding that grew up in the talks.

Churchill gave —

1. An endorsement of U. S. far eastern policies which practically ends the long split over the issue of Chinese recognition and holds promise of close Anglo - U. S. cooperation on future Korean developments, Japanese revival and security for southeast Asia.

Critics of Anglo - American cooperation in Parliament and apparently some segments of the government and the British public have long been afraid Britain had to act as a brake on American impulses to "run wild" in the far east. Churchill received detailed assurances from Mr. Truman that the American government is at least as anxious as the British to achieve peace and prevent the spread of the Korean war. In explaining the new line of British foreign policy in the orient, he may pass on these assurances.

2. Agreement on an Atlantic command under an American admiral. For the man who once said he had not become his majesty's first minister to preside over the liquidation of the empire this presumably was Churchill's most difficult assignment here. It symbolizes Britain's waning power in world politics, the fact that Britannia no longer "rules the waves."

TRANSPORT PLANE

now of Seattle but formerly of Helena, Mont.

The seven men fished out of the water and off the protruding wing by a man in a rowboar were identified at McChord, Wash., air force base as Sgts. Charles H. Fieles and Richard O. Fieles; Lt. Donald E. Baker, Sgt. H. D. Mayhard, Pfc. William A. Price, Demearis G. Apostolon and Sgt. Gregory Calkins.

No home towns were available. Military authorities said names of others aboard would be announced after next of kin are notified, probably tomorrow or Monday.

As officials reconstructed the tragedy, the plane was coming into this Queen Charlotte Islands airport with one of its four engines feathered for an emergency landing.

A Royal Canadian air force spokesman said that with one engine cut, the plane probably did not have enough power to make a second try for the field. When the crew saw they would fall short, they had no alternative but to belly - land the craft in the water.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

When Not to Make a Canasta

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"The other night," relates an Oswego correspondent, "I wanted to open a closed canasta that my side had melded early in the hand. I wanted to see how many deuces or jokers had been used in the canasta because I was trying to count up the entire meld.

"My problem was whether or not to meld out at that moment. I was willing to meld out if my score would then be below 3000 points, but I intended to keep the hand going if we were already over that mark.

"I could count the open melds of course, and I could form a good estimate of the counting value of my partner's hand.

"The trouble was that I had forgotten which cards were used in the closed canasta, and the presence of a 50 - point joker in that canasta would have been enough to put us over 3000 points.

"My attempt to open the canasta started quite a discussion. My opponents were quite sure I had no right to open the canasta. What's more, they thought I was crazy for trying to count so carefully.

"I therefore put both these questions up to you.

"Did I have the right to open the canasta?

"Was I crazy to be counting the melds so carefully?"

The opponents were half right. You did not have the right to open the canasta for the purpose of counting the meld.

Once a canasta has been closed it may be opened for any reason at all during the turn in which it is closed and also during the next player's turn.

When the next player has discarded, the canasta stays closed until the end of the hand — unless somebody tries to add a wild card to it.

If you take a wild card out of your hand and try to add it to a canasta, you may open the canasta to make sure that it will not then contain more than three wild cards.

If there are already three wild cards in the canasta, you must put your wild card elsewhere.

The opponents were wrong, of course, when they thought that my correspondent was crazy for counting so carefully.

Experts agree that it is worth several hundred points to stay under 3000 points in this sort of position.

Every expert counts very carefully for this reason — but he remembers the cards in a canasta without having to open it up.

There's no argument when Jacoby sets you right. For your copy of his 24 - page Canasta Rules book, send 15 cents with your name and address to Oswald Jacoby, Box 438, Times Sq. Sta., New York 18, N. Y.

MAJOR VICTORY WON BY BOLES

Wins Senate Election In Richland And Catahoula Parishes

Willam R. Boles, Rayville, was elected state senator from Franklin, Richland and Catahoula parishes in the recent primary, defeating his opponent, Dr. Ralph King, by a large majority.

Boles, who is a practicing attorney in Rayville, was elected to his first political office on a platform for full $50 old age pension, improvement of all farm and market roads and all school bus routes completely graveled, a cost-of-living salary raise for school teachers, bus drivers, and other Louisiana school system employes, conservation of wildlife, fish, and natural resources and taking the department out of politics, a non-political civil service system, no increase in taxes, economy in government and elimination of waste and graft.

Senator-elect Boles, whi is a lifelong resident of Richland parish, served his country during World War II in the U. S. navy and saw service in the South Pacific. After his honorable discharge from the navy, he returned to Louisiana to resume his studies, completing his pre-law training at Louisiana Tech. He entered the law school at L. S. U. where he was elected president of the law school student body, a member of the student council, and a member of Gamma Eta Gamma, honorary legal fraternity. He married the former Mary Catherine Furlow of Elizabeth, La. and has two small daughters.

The newly elected senator stated that he attributed his election to hard work and good friends. "I will never presume that I have the right to tell people whom to elect governor, representative, police jurur, or any other office. It is the people's constitutional right to elect whomever they choose and if I am elected it will be my duty to work with, not against, these elected officials for the best interests of the people I represent. The only way to achieve the most advantages for this or any other district is through close cooperation with all of the officials of the parish and district."

The tabulated vote was as follows: Franklin parish, Boles, 3,985, King, 3,087; Richland, 4,053, 1,826; Catahoula, 1,939, 1,501.

DR. BEHNKEN AFFIRMS ACTION

Withdrawal Of General Clark From Vatican Role Pleases

Dr. John W. Behnken, president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod with 1,800,000 members in the United States, expressed satisfaction over the withdrawal of General Mark Clark as United States appointee to the Vatican.

Dr. Behnken, whose church body had taken an active part in the opposition to the nomination said:

"General Mark Clark has performed a service to the American people by asking for withdrawal of his nomination as ambassador to the Vatican. If further attempts are made to establish a United States embassy at the Vatican, they will be opposed with the same determination with which Americans of all creeds have opposed this unfortunate nomination, now happily withdrawn.

"One good result of the Clark nomination has been free discussion without rancor or ill-will, of the American principle of freedom of religion written into our Constitution, and of the policy of separation of church and state designed to protect that principle. There is a good deal more straight thinking on these questions today than there was a year ago."

The members of Trinity Lutheran Church of this city, which is affiliated with the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, joins with their fellow members and with those of other faiths who hold this same opinion, in this feeling of satisfaction, expressed by Dr. Behnken, over the decision of General Clark.

The trinity congregation was on several recent occasions urged to make full use of their right as citizens and to write to their congressmen, to the president of the United States, and to Senator Tom Connolly (D.-Texas.) chairman of the senate foreign relations committee: expressing their disapproval of action taken by the president.

According to an announcement made by the Rev. Harold L. Reinhardt, pastor of the local Lutheran congregation, the congregation is determined to continue in their efforts, along with all others who are like-minded, to oppose such an appointment until the matter is settled in congress.

Some Election Officials 'Stretch Legs'

During the counting of ballots Tuesday night in Ouachita parish, after voting had been closed, an extraordinary situation developed. As a result of this situation, R. Dean Farr, Ouachita parish clerk of court, said he failed to receive the official tally sheets from three precincts and was 24 hours late in receiving tally sheets from another precinct.

Breaking all precedent and interfering with the official counting of the ballots, a number of members of the Monroe police department and Monroe fire department went to voting precincts through the parish and called upon the election officials to stop counting and to provide them with reports on partial returns. In some instances, the election officials refused to accede to these requests or demands and continued with the counting. In other cases, these officials stopped counting and virtually surrendered the tally sheets to the policemen and firemen. One policeman said he visited four precincts and that in three of these precincts the counting was stopped while he went to the tally sheets and counted the votes that had been recorded.

At some of the precincts, the process was said to have been repeated one or more times, the count thus being interrupted several times.

One officer said the election officials "seemed to be glad of a chance to stretch their legs." It is to be hoped the officials did not stretch their legs too far away from the tally sheets and that that is not the reason three of the tally sheets did not appear at the office of the clerk of court and that another tally sheet reached the clerk's office 24 hours late.

Giving out election returns at the voting precincts as soon as the counting has been completed is a long-established custom and one that is of great benefit to the people, as, in this way, results are known almost a week sooner than if official tabulation promulgation was awaited. However, there seems no justification for surrendering even temporary custody of the tally sheets to any one other than an election official.

George A. Wood, representing the police department on the civil service board, said the members of the police department who visited the polls were not on duty and were not in uniform. It was stated that the source which paid the police $7.50 each for their night's work contacted the chief of police and the fire chief and asked them if they would like to provide off-duty men to gather election returns.

Mayor John A. Coon said the policemen were not acting in an official capacity and that he had not been advised that the policemen were doing the work.

It would seem advisable that Mayor Coon and the election officials should take steps to see to it that the prestige which is attached to policemen and firemen, even though they may not be in uniform, should not be allowed to sway the election officials to such an extent that they will fail to observe ordinary election precautions.

Women's 'Whispering' Wins

In Tuesday's Democratic primary election it was the so-called silent voters, a large proportion of them women, who turned the tide in favor of Judge Robert F. Kennon and virtually assured him the next governorship of Lousiana.

For a number of weeks before the election, politicians both major and minor, apparently had decided that the race primarily was to be staged among Judge Carlos Spaht, Hale Boggs and James McLemore. Having taken that position, opposing camps concentrated their opposition against these three men, with the result that they succeeded in tearing down the strength of each to some extent.

It is certain that the charges of alignment between the Spaht and Boggs camps and between the Spaht and McLemore camps hurt both Boggs and McLemore. Except for this, there is a strong likelihood that Boggs would have made it into the runoff. McLemore also suffered severely because of the support of Perez of Plaquemines parish. Perez succeeded in killing whatever chances Lucille May Grace may have had early in the campaign and then dealt a heavy blow to McLemore by supporting him. It was lucky for Kennon that Perez did not announce support of him. If he had done so, Kennon might have lost one-fourth to one-third of the votes he received, which would have completely nullified his chances.

At the time the supporters of Boggs, McLemore and Spaht were tossing around a little mud, which turned out mostly to be just slightly muddy water, Kennon's strength was quietly growing.

This was noticed to a considerable extent a couple of weeks before the election and a week before the election there was a big shift in the betting, many at that time being willing to wager that Kennon would take first place or at least get into the runoff. Even at that time, however, political backers of Spaht, McLemore and Boggs were afraid to turn their guns on Kennon for fear whatever votes were lost to Kennon would react to the benefit of another foe.

A week or two before the election there were persistent reports that the women were carrying on a "whispering campaign" in favor of Kennon. This person-to-person campaign in favor of Kennon was so elusive that there was no chance for politicians to track it down and it grew and spread rapidly. Undoubtedly it gave Kennon the added strength he needed to get into the runoff.

We congratulate Judge Kennon and Judge Spaht on their success in getting into the runoff and also congratulate local candidates who were successful. To those who were unsuccessful, we extend good wishes. In all contests, some must lose while others win and those who lost should look upon their losses in the same good spirit that the loser in any kind of game should display.

The Danger Of The Demagog

The head of one of our great oil companies recently said that the people of the United States can keep their country strong if they have the courage to insist on good leadership and actively seek it. He warned of the consequences of the almost daily attacks on business by some men seeking high office in government or labor. Then he said. "Intentionally or unintentionally, these men are splitting the country into factions and then setting one faction against the other. They are encouraging profligate government and jurisdictional strikes, as needless as they are costly, and they are quick to threaten the use of force. We see increasing corruption in public office."

Many of these people would feel libeled if accused of being Communists, he observed. "Yet," he added, "they are following very much the program the Communists would employ to bring about the ruination of our country: Split it into opposing factions. Sow the seeds of dissension, mistrust and fear. Destroy the profit motive and remove all incentive. Bleed its economy white and bring on national bankruptcy. Then take over with help from the discordant elements. If this state of affairs long continues, the country cannot survive."

It is a fact that industries which have done the most to raise our living standards and to give us economic and military strength, such as oil, are under constant attack. It is a fact that free enterprise, and all those other freedoms of which it is an inextricable part, are marked for destruction by those who, knowingly or otherwise, follow the Socialist-Communist line. Every American should realize the danger of this kind of demagoguery and act accordingly.

J. M. Roberts, Jr.

THE NEWS INTERPRETING

Associated Press News Analyst

The western Allies are moving toward a united stand regarding the possibility of Communist aggression in southeast Asia, and thus seeking to avoid the mistakes which invited the long and costly war in Korea.

A long list of developments primarily affecting Indo-China has created a period of considerable tension, but hardly add up yet to a real crisis. That depends on politburo plans.

The death of Gen. Jean De Lattre De Tassigny, who only recently had turned the tide against the Vietminh rebels in Indo-China, was a serious blow to France. It just happened to come when France and Britain were conferring with the U. S. over uncreased American aid for their anti - Communist campaigns in southeast Asia, and when Communist forces in China were making new threatening movements.

The Communists were qquick to accuse the western conferees in Washington of planning war in the area. This was taken by many to be another case of accusation parallel with Moscow's own intent. But for the moment it seemed just more propaganda. Each side is trying to warn the other of the dangers of a new outbreak.

Anthony Eden, Britain's foreign minister, said at Columbia University Friday that "it should be understood" that Communist intervention in southeast Asia would create a new situation similar to that met and faced by the United Nations in Korea. This was taken by some to be a warning to the Communists. But its surrounding context and timing in connection with the Anglo - French - American discussions in Washington seemed to make it just as much an appeal for solidity of western thinking and preparation.

The whole thing, however, faced the United States with the question of how far it was prepared to go in defense of southeast Asia in event of Communist attack. France's General Juin had not yet asked for a commitment of ground strength, but did seek air and naval promises and increased shipment of materiel. But it was enough to remind of the swift shifts from limited to all out action when the Korean war started.

Meanwhile, the United States already was committed to action through the United Nations in cases similar to that of Korea. In Paris the nations had voted to have troops ready if that body should issue a new call as it did in 1950. And that seemed, in the long run, to be the way any new aggression would be met, even though the greater part of the preparation would be through the three-power talks in Washington.

At any rate, enough was taking place to let Russia and the Chinese Communists know that France would not have to stand alone in Indo-China, or Britain in Malaya.

DO YOUR PART IN KOREA FIGHT

Bloodmobile Needs Volunteers To Provide Blood For Wounded

Of course, you can't go to Korea—but you can work with the bloodmobile which furnishes blood for our boys on the fighting line. The Red Cross bloodmobile operates out of the Jackson, Miss., regional center, and will visit Ouachita parish February 5, 6, and 7. Approximately 150 volunteers will be needed to assist the staff of doctors and nurses who do the actual drawing of the blood. This entire unit of trained medical workers and volunteers must work with the precision of an assembly line in order to insure 125 pints of blood per day.

Volunteers in West Monroe, call Mrs. J. W. Golson—2-1642. If you can type, call staff aide chairman Mrs. Douglas Miles—3-6993. Were you a nurses aide? Have you had hospital experience? — Call nurses aide chairman, Mrs. C. D. McAdams—3-3986. Would you like to work in canteen? Call Mrs. George Forman 3-5388 or Miss Juanita Porter 3-3188.

If you would like to serve as receptionist, which is very important for this large group of donors, call 3-5141. Or call Red Cross office for information 3-5141.

Ralph Hammond of the national Red Cross staff will conduct a class for volunteers. Training and coordinating all these services with the trained medical staff is very important. This training is a "must" if you are going to work with the bloodmobile. You may attend either of the classes on January, Wednesday, 23 — 8:30-11:30 a. m. or 12:30-3:30 p. m.

BIBLE THOUGHTST:

DOWN SOUTH

TEMPORARY VS. PERMANENT

Someone has observed recently that what this country needs is a permanent wave as permanent as a temporary tax and a temporary tax as temporary as a permanent wave.

Now, that's an observation that both the men and the women of this country could agree on—and with such unanimous agreement, maybe we could get somewhere!

All of which naturally brings up the subject of foreign aid, because foreign aid is paid for with taxes taken from the American people and because we have been told since 1945 that foreign aid is a temporary proposition.

The president will present his budget for next year within the next few days and we shall not know until then the cost of the new foreign aid program. But he has already told us it will again be onerous — perhaps larger than ever before—and he has already told us again it will be "temporary."

We want to help Britain and the countries of Western Europe. Of course we do; they are our friends. But we need a leader honest enough to tell us and to tell them that we are not really helping these countries with recurring "hand outs." It is criminal folly to pretend that we are putting Europe on the road to recovery by any such methods.

The sound - thinking people of those nations, particularly of Britain, know this. Intelligent Britishers told me so when I spent several weeks in that country finding out what happens to a people's freedom and to a people's economy under a socialist government. They told me that the worst thing we could have done for Britain was to make them the four billion dollar loan in 1946 and subsidize their socialist government with Marshall Aid during the subsequent years. The loan was used to help establish the Socialist government and the Marshall Aid was used to help keep it in office. Without this aid, the Socialist government would undoubtedly have fallen much sooner than it did, and the Conservative government would accordingly have had a much better chance to rebuild Britain than it now has. As it is, the British well ran dry, the Conservatives inherited an almost bankrupt concern, and the road to recovery will be much more painful than it might have been.

But the realistic people of Britain were overwhelmed, just as were the realistic people of this country, by the so-called humanitarian aspect of the situation and by the fallacious attitude that a people's troubles could be solved by treating the symptoms rather than the causes.

It is simply a truism of human nature—and nations are no different from individuals in this respect —that the more you give a man, the more he wants, and if you give it to him long enough, he will finally consider it his by right.

This is simply another way of saying that you can't help a nation with an annual dole for more than a year at a time unless you require that nation to remedy its own imperfections, unless that nation is willing to help itself.

We are now, for the first time in history, shipping coal to Britain, when Britain has plenty of coal if their people only had the energy to mine it. In fact, the value of the coal we are selling them is equivalent to a large percentage of the aid we are giving them! In France, the deficits of their nationalized railways and the social security system in 1952 will just about equal the amount of promised American Aid. Yet the Pleven government fell last week because the French Parliament balked at economies in these two fields.

It is the right of the British people to decide whether they shall dig enough of their own coal to supply their own needs. It is also the right of the French people to decide whether they shall waste money on their government owned and operated railroads. But it is also the right of the American people to decide whether they shall make this decision easy for the British and the French! Why should Britain and France choose the harder way when easy American aid has been forthcoming for seven years and gives every promise of continuing indefinitely?

Our Children

HANDWORK

Mothers and fathers who have their children's best interests at heart will make certain that they are taught to use their hands so that they have an outlet for their energy, a place of refuge for their minds when they are troubled, some way in which they can find the joy of creative work. A human being is never so happy as when he is, with his own hands, making something that pleases him and, he hopes, other people as well.

Physicians in charge of patients suffering mental disturbance or illness now prescribe handwork, some sort of occupation that displaces a distressing thought and puts a constructive healthy one in its stead. That works wonders for mental patients, distressed minds, for tired, troubled people too hard pressed by daily living.

Long ago I learned to provide handwork for children in school so that they could work off their emotions and find peace in creative activity. We added shop after shop for boys and girls alike so that they had relief from the pressure of study, of home troubles, of personal problems. They painted and modeled and carved, they sewed and knit and crocheted, they wove beautiful tapestries and rugs, embroidered and decorated the clothes that they made in the sewing rooms. They wrote poetry and printed it. Bound books and mended them. They made and tended a garden, wrote and performed plays. They found relief and joy and a purpose for living in these creative activities and they lost the feeling of pressure and frustration that so roubles young people.

When there is no outlet for soured emotion, for frustrated desires, no relief from pressure, afforded children and grownup people as well, mental distress follows slowly and surely. Why not prevent that by the simple means that are always at hand — occupation, creative work for children and young people?

Such an outlet has been provided every human being. His strength is within him if we only help him to reach it. Prayer is a great help. Work of his own choosing is a wonderful help always. Both these outlets are within reach of any teacher and parent anywhere, any time. They should be placed at the children's disposal and the children should be encouraged to use them.

People who are so sure that any activity apart from books is frivolous and wasteful should take a look at the hospitals for mental illness and see what the physicians order for many of these enrolled there. Handwork, creative work of any kind, is tonic to the mind. To neglect this need is to foster ill health in children and make mental disturbances more easily acquired. An ounce of prevention is indicated.

BASCOM TIMMONS

By Charles O. Gridley

Washington, D. C. — Senator Robert A. Taft, now the leading candidate for the Republican nomination for president, must counter a growing trend among farmers who reason that General Dwight D. Eisenhower might be a better candidate for their interests because he would favor a "gradual deflation rather than an abrupt change in government policy toward agriculture, which might result in a sudden break in farm prices.

Where this sentiment originated is difficult to determine, except that it is credited in Washington circles in part to Allan B. Kline, the Iowa insurance executive and farmer who is now president of the powerful American Farm Bureau Federation. Kline visited General Eisenhower in Paris several weeks ago and is reported to have said on his return that "the general is the man who can help this country emotionally."

That statement is a little difficult to fathom until it is recalled that a change in the White House is invariably accompanied by a demand for immediate and sweeping legislative action to overhaul the country's economy. That was true when Harding became president in 1921 (an emergency tariff bill passed in 90 days, with the subsequent Fordney-McCumber tariff act for permanent increases) and when Roosevelt was inaugurated in 1932, with a whole host of eye opening changes. It was also true when Herbert Hoover approved higher tariffs in 1929.

In the intervening years the position of the farmer has changed to the extent that he is now a business man, in most instances a prosperous one, highly sensitive to market price declines in livestock, grains and food commodities.

Senator Taft can of course counter that impression among agriculturists by emphatic statements that he has no intention, if elected president, of asking congress for sweeping economic changes. Nevertheless the fear in farm districts seems to be widespread, according to qualified observers, that Taft as president would like to take the country back to an era when government price supports for farm products were considered abhorrent by almost everybody in congress except members from farm districts.

Eisenhower is said by his friends to be convinced that here must be sweeping cuts in national expenditure, which might put a chill on his growing favor among agricultural producers, because such reductions must be made partly at their expense and could result in immediate declines in the market, price of livestock and farm commodities.

The American farmer, it has been pointed out by some of his nongovernmental representatives here, has become one of the nation's greatest realists. Stockman knows that a $10 break in the price of cattle would upset their whole outlook, and might be the beginning of a deflation which would affect the whole industry as adversely as the price breaks in cattle and sheep after World War I. On the other hand most agriculturists are said to realize "that we cannot stay on this high peak indefinitely" and to hope that the deflation will be gradual rather than precipitate.

These factors are just beginning to be considered in their relation to this year's election and their bearing on the presidential nominations of both parties. Offsetting the reported trend toward Eisenhower in the big agricultural states is the

Man Reading the Papers

The American Command is in a bitter quarrel with Tokyo over next year's military budget for Japan. . . . Ironically, exactly ten years after Bataan and Corregidor, the U. S. is insisting that Japan spend at least 37 per cent of the national revenue for its armed forces, and the Japs are protesting that this is too much! . . . The "peace-loving" Japs for some time have taken legal refuge in the constitution we ordered them to draft — which forbids war. . . . Of course, everybody knows the score: We need Japan so badly as an ally that we've got to gamble on which way she'll point the guns—in the end. . . . History not only repeats. It often reverses itself.

Five very distinguished economists told the United Nations that business booms from now on will be the rule, not the exception. . . . At least 20 eminent economists saw the same thing just before October 1929. The United Nations economists, though, have two hard decades of history to back up their theory. . . . They do not say that the reason everybody is going to have work is that business will be good. They say business will be good because every government will have to establish full employment, as a "firm objective of policy." . . . In short, the Roosevelt experiment is now respectable economics: Business doesn't make jobs, jobs make business.

Attorney General Goldstein urges the N. Y. Legislature to make dope pushing a crime punishable by life imprisonment after the third conviction. . . . It seems to this reporter that the nature of the crime depends upon the pushed and not the pusher. The very first time a "pusher" is caught teaching a child how to use narcotics, he ought to be pushed into the electric chair. . . . If murderers of a man's body deserve the death penalty, what is a just punishment for one who murders the soul of a child by making it a drug addict?

General de Lattre is dead in Paris. . . . The Iron Man of Indo-China put a spine of steel into the French far east army the day he arrived. His 23-year-old son stepped up to greet him, and de Lattre asked him where he was stationed. The boy, a fine officer, said his battalion was in the firing line. The general ordered him to his post and reprimanded the officer who gave him leave. But when the boy was killed a few weeks later, de Lattre flew with the body back to France. . . . The general never lost the will to win, but after that he lost the will to live.

Vishinsky's atom inspection plan is due for the Washington wastebasket. Not only because it has the No. 64 joker in it, national domestic rights, but because 52 Red treaties have been broken since 1946. . . . What Vishinsky is saying is: "I agree with everything that you say, but I will fight to the death for my right to disbelieve in you."

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas has refused any place on the Democratic ticket of 1952 — though he would have been on the winning 1944 ticket except for the Hannagan-Pauley coup for Truman. . . . Grace Tully tells the story of the two letters by F. D. R. on his preferences, the first reading Douglas or Truman, and the second reading Truman or Douglas. . . . Justice Douglas' decision is perfectly understandable. Who wouldn't prefer the supreme court ermine to the White House mink?

The President has asked Congress to abolish the "armchair statutory office" of 64 collectors of Internal Revenue—a new name for political plums. The message castigates the present system because, says the President, the Collectors "must accommodate themselves to local political situations" . . . The only flaw, in fact, is that the appointments are all made from Washington . . . After seven years in office, that kind of a statement from the President isn't a recommendation to Congress. It is an empty apology to the nation's taxpayers.

N. Y. State has lifted the ban on parrots. This legalizes politicians for the Big Election Year.

Inflation has hit the pocketbooks of the teachers of the nation, but not their salary envelopes . . . The million odd schoolteachers who teach the nation's 26½ million kids average about $275 a month. In only two school districts in the entire nation do school teachers average more than fouur thousand dollars a year . . . His home area continues its strangehold on the No. 1 spot of the nation's illiteracy by paying its teachers lowest, a guess you would almost make from reading John E. Rankin's speeches.

The House voted a 10 per cent pay increase to servicemen, the first step in raising G. I. Joe's pay from $75 to $82.50 a month . . . Congressman John Taber of New York objected for allegedly patriotic reasons. "The worst thing we can do for our boys overseas," he declared, "is to promote inflation" . . . A fighting man gets $900 a year —and a Congressman gets $15,000 . . . If Congressman Taber really wants to combat inflation, why doesn't he offer to serve the United States, in the safe corridors of Washington, at the same rate of compensation that the boys from his own district are receiving for fighting in Korea?

Winston Churchill's address to Congress today reminds you that Atlas may have held the world on his shoulders once, but Churchill did it twice . . . It must have been an interesting reunion that Churchill had at Ottawa—with Gen'l Alexander, now Governor General of

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

JAPANESE PEACE TREATY

The British prefer that the Japanese should trade with Communist China so that Japan will not invade the Indian and other British markets in Asia. This is an extremely important consideration in the restoration of British imperial trade.

On the other hand, the entire American position in Japan, and for that matter in Asia, can be imperilled by any arrangement between Japan and Soviet China. Even a commercial treaty between the two countries would have enormous political implications.

Also, it is probable that the Japanese peace treaty will be held up in the senate for ratification. If there is any suspicion that a deal might be in the offing between Japan and Soviet Russia. This would not be the work of the China lobby but of Americans who resent the outrages committed on Americans in Korea and the scandalous so-called cease fire negotiations.

One of the proposals is that Formosa be included in the Japanese peace treaty. This will not be accepted by Chiang Kai-shek because it would force upon him the principle that Nationalist China is sovereign over Formosa and not over China. That involves a tacit recognition by Chiang Kai-shek of Soviet China, which it is politically impossible for him to do. This formula has too many gimmicks in it to make sense.

It has been contended that Japan is not in a position to write a bilateral treaty with Nationalist China, or for that matter, with any country, until the Japanese peace treaty has been ratified by the United States senate. This is an intricate legal question, involving the relationship of that treaty to the occupation. In a word, does Japan remain occupied territory until the Japanese peace treaty is ratified, or was the sovereignty of Japan recognized fully at San Francisco?

International lawyers can quarrel over that a long time, as the processes of ratification are different in each country and there were 49 signatories to the Japanese peace treaty. Article 26 of that document reads:

"Japan will be prepared to conclude with any state which signed or adhered to the United Nations declaration of January 1, 1942, and which is at war with Japan . . . which is not a signatory of the present treaty, a bilateral treaty of peace on the same or substantially the same terms as are provided for in the present treaty, but this obligation on the part of Japan will expire three years after the first coming into force of the present treaty. . . ."

The real danger is that as Soviet Russia has rejected the Japanese peace treaty, it is still at war with Japan and could send an occupation force to it on the basis of the original decision of the far eastern commission of June 19, 1947. American troops are governed by article 6 (A) of the Japanese peace treaty:

"(A) All occupation forces of the Allied powers shall be withdrawn from Japan as soon as possible after the coming into force of the present treaty, and in any case not later than 90 days thereafter."

The United States and Japan have a separate agreement (the United States - Japanese security treaty) on the defense of Japan. But should Soviet Russia insist upon her original right to send troops, it would undoubtedly become a cause for war between the two countries.

It must be obvious that Soviet Russia and Soviet China are biding their time in this extremely complicated situation. They will use every means to play British trade interests against American political interests. They will seek to use Japan as a stalking horse in the effort to obtain recognition for Soviet China. They will press this issue with all the vigor of their propaganda organization throughout the world, and in the United States this propaganda may be effective because of public weariness over our failure in the Korean war.

It must always be borne in mind that Korea was never the target in Soviet policy. It was and is an avenue foward Japan. Korea is worth nothing to Russia or China; the conquest of Japan can imperil the defense of the United States and give Russia an additional industrial base of great value.

This is a realistic approach to the problem of our relations with east Asia. The British will have to revise their general policy of the defense of Japan should not preclude the defense of Malaya.

The first step in gaining U. S. citizenship is to make a declaration of intention in the office of the clerk of any naturalization court.

Jimmie Fiddler IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, January 19.—Reading the Hollywood trade papers can become a severe emotional strain. For instance:

A couple of days ago, the editor of one of the two most widely-read sheets devoted several columns to the financial plight of the movie industry. But the time I'd finished reading that detailed report on meager box - office returns, the emaciated condition of independent production, and the lethal nature of the current tax levies, I was ready to let down what hair I have left and induge in a flood of tears.

Then, next day, I picked up the same paper and red a paragraph about Rita Hayworth's deal at Columbia. The Princess Aly Khan pulls down as salary the tidy little sum of $250,000 per picture, plus a 25 per cent cut of the profits. And this, mind you, despite the fact that she's been off the screen for some three years, and the further facts that she left Hollywood under such scandalous circumstances that many movie - goers were deeply offended, and that she never, at any time in her career, has had any consistency as a top-ranking box-office draw!

Under such circumstances, how far can sympathy be strained? And how, in the name of Heaven, can the producers wonder at the persistent efforts of the movie guilds and unions to boost their pay scales in the face of dwindling picture profits?

Idol Chatter: Maybe the Motion Picture Academy oughta pass out two Oscars to feminine stars — one for acting ability and one for cleavage. . .Smile-alikes: Gail Russell and Loretta Young. . .Dancing must be as good for the digestion as it is for the figure, judging from Leslie Caron's penalty - free habit of eating chocolate cake for breakfast. . .In-a-word description of George Sanders, discussing any one of the many things that excite his contempt: sneer - perfect. . .Shelley Winters might be described as the kind of a girl that likes a man who's either Frank or Earnest. . . Nominated for the most - perfect-complexion - in - Hollywood award: Deborah Kerr. . .What price that old bromide about women decorating themselves to please men — now that the gals are going in for poodle haircuts?

Keefe Brasselle tells it. The other evening, at nine o'clock, or thereabouts, he answered a knock at his front door and found himself confronted by a very pretty miss about foruteen years old. After identifying herself as Donna Jaskson of Sherman Oaks, she shyly asked if he wasn't Keefe Brasselle, the movie star. With pardonable pride, Keefe said she was correct. "You work at MGM?" don't you, persisted Miss Jackson. Keefe admitted that he does.

"Then you're just the one to do me a wonderful favor," beamed the teen-ager, fishing from her handbag a full - page reproduction of a Mario Lanza photo. "You can get my favorite star, Mario Lanza, to sign this for me."

Keefe was so impressed he executed the commission and personally delivered the autograph the following day.

Visiting on the "What Price Glory" set at 20th Century-Fox, I heard Director John Ford give 100 extras a lesson in military etiquette. The extras, garbed as marine corps privates, were standing "at ease" to hear a pep talk delivered by their brigadier, played by Jimmy Gleason. During his monologue, Gleason attempted a joke - and the marine - suited extras took it in stride without permitting themselves so much as a smile. "Cut!" reared Ford. "Haven't any of you fellows ever been in the service? When a general condescends to crack a joke, you laugh - brother, you laugh!"

Robert Newton, offered the role of Javert in "Les Miserables," said yes, but with an apprehension that any actor would readily understand. The last time "Les Miserables" had been screened, Javert was played by Charles Laughton, and comparisons with Laughton are very apt to be even more odious than usual. During a visit to New York, where Laughton was then playing "Don Juan in Hell," Newton decided to go backstage and have a talk with him - and I like his account of the ensuing conversation. "Charlie," said Newton, "I'd like to talk with you about Javart, and get your advise. . ." "I'll give it ti you right now," snapped Laughton. Here it is, you lazy so-and-so. Read the book!"

Speaking of inertia, I'm reminded of Groucho Marx's frequently reiterated plaint. "I've always wanted to make laziness a hobby," he moaned. "The trouble is, I've never had time for it!"

DEATH REPRIEVE SOUGHT

Singapore —(AP)— Leading Moslems and thousands of their followers in this British colony have sent a petition to the governor asking for the reprieve of a Pakistani sentenced to death for killing a British soldier in the December riots of 1950.

The petition, addressed to Governor Sir Franklin Gimson, requests that A. K. S. Othman Ghany be spared from execution for the murder of Cpl. Peter Hugh Bell. Ghany's appeals were rejected earlier in the year by two courts.

TO THE VOTERS OF WARD 10

MY DEEP AND HEARTFELT THANKS AND APPRECIATION

I have been re-elected on the first primary ballot as one of the three police jurors for Ward 10, and I am grateful of each and every one of you for the fine vote of confidence you have given me. I realize that in large measure those people who voted for me are my personal friends, and it was through their efforts that my re-election was assured, and I wish to take this means of assuring them that I will exert every effort in behalf of our ward, and its people. I was unable because of financial consideration, to advertise my candidacy or devote my full time to it, and I thereby failed to meet and solicit the votes of many of you, but to those persons I was unable to see, or who voted for any of my fine opponents, in perference to me, I wish to say that I will strive deligently and sincerely to merit your confidence and your future personal friendship.

It is an honor to me to be permitted to represent all of the people of Ward 10, and I wish to assure each and every one of you that I will continue my efforts to promote and develop our fine drainage program and our program of blacktop roads and streets in Ward 10, and Ouachita parish, that was inaugurated during my term of office, rendering to you full and effective service as one of your police jurors in Ward 10.

The last day of last year marked the close of 27 years of faithful services of Mrs. Mattie Hinton Jones as postmistress of the Downsville post office and Sam Jones, above, her husband, as assistant postmaster.

Retiring because of her age, Mrs. Jones tells that she took over her job, Apri 7, 1924 when Downsville was classed as a low fourth class office with two small rural mail carries and 46 miles of rural route service. Now, 27 years later, that office is rated a high third class still maintaining two rural route carriers but with 73.01 miles added mileage making a total of 119.01 miles of rural route service available to the people of the community. Mr. and Mrs. Jones are leaving their office with the best wishes of their many friends.

Coastal Storms Move Far Inland

The severe storm that gave California a multi - million dollar drubbing moved far inland Saturday, bringing rain, snow and sleet to the middle Mississippi valley.

A surge of arctic cold bore down on upper regions of the midwest and cold wave warnings were issued for parts of Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Overnight temperatures were expected to dip to 15 degrees below zero in northwest Minnesota.

Widely scattered snow flurries occurred in the central and northern Rockies. There was some rain in the Pacific northwest.

Cooler air from the Great Lakes region pushed eastward to the Atlantic and southward to just north of the Gulf coast.

Clearing weather in California, where the week's disaster toll from storms and floods reached 19, permitted cleanup crews to go to work. Hundreds of flood victims began straggling back to their water - logged and mud - plastered homes.

well authenticated pro-Taft sentiment in larger cities, which is attributed to the conclusion among middle and low income groups, particularly the white collar groups, that they are the principal sufferers from inflation and high taxes, and that their chief hope is a change of administration, headed by a man of Taft's conservation or non-inflationary views. Voters in this general category, though they gave President Truman a big lift in 1948, are said now to find little hope in the administration insistence upon higher taxes, with small prospect that the inflationary trend can be reserved.

Possibly the most interesting report from impartial canvassers in the field is that organized labor is not nearly as unfriendly to Robert A. Taft as labor leaders like to represent. There was a strong suggestion to that effect in 1950 in the senator's smashing victory in Ohio, which could only have been accomplished with considerable support from the workers. One report from Gary, Ind., one of the main steel centers is that steel workers there are saying that inflation eats up all wage increases and that the only alternative is to vote for a man of Taft's views, who will do something to check inflation.

The Taft vote in Ohio is described here as having been a grapevine signal to all organized labor that the labor vote in Ohio was not afraid of Taft. This again emphasizes the theory that the Taft vote would be defeated if he were to ties than outside.

Another important tip coming in from observers is that the more the idea is stressed that President Truman would not be at all disappointed if General Eisenhower were nominated on the Republican ticket and elected, the more Eisenhower sentiment shrinks

On the Democratic side, polls continue to show sentiment for President Truman at a low ebb, but Democrats who are still eager that the president seek renomination say that has been true periodically in every year since he has been in office. The experience of 1948 still gives prognosticators caution. They have had their fingers burned once, don't want to be forthright in any prediction that the president would be defeated if hewere to be renominated.

As for alternate Democratic candidates in case of the president decides to retire, there is no concentration of opinion as yet, but the reports received here from a number of states indicate that Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.-Tenn.) is receiving more favorable mention than any other.

PROFESSOR'S WIFE GRADUATES

New York—(AP)—Dr. Carl Hammer, Hunter College mathematics professor will be glad when Feb. 5 comes this year because he's getting tired of having one of the students around the house doing her homework.

At that commencement day his wife, Jeannette, 35, a former model and fashion illustrator for 10 years, will get her sheepskin. She finished her interrupted collegiate career with Phi Beta Kappa honors. After gathering bits of learning at Salinas Junior College in California and art schools in Chicago and Kansas City, she decided in 1943 to finish the job at Hunter College. She was so impressed that she suggested that her husband get a teaching job there.

Mrs. Hammer's mother, Mrs. Nettie M. George, 57, will receive an M. A. in education in June from the University of Idaho.

The Province bell, later known as the Liberty Bell, cast in London, arrived in Philadelphia in 1752. It cracked during its testing. It was recast and cracked again when tolled at the funeral of Chief Justice John Marshall in 1835.

Railroad Wire Chief Brings Bride Back From Germany

Arthur Johnson Is Married In Lutheran Church In Hildesheim

By Yvonne Brett

A trip across the Atlantic and back united Arthur Johnson, wire chief for the Missouri Pacific railroad, and a German girl with whom he had corresponded for more than a year.

The marriage was held in a Lutheran church in Hildesheim, Germany on October 27.

Johnson, who resides at 211 South Fourth street, relates the story of his courtship as follows:

"My sister was an army nurse during World War II stationed in Vienna, where she met my wife, Hildegard Zitelman, and formed a lasting friendship. After my sister, who at present is residing in Vancouver, Wash., returned to the states a lengthy correspondence resulted between she and her German friend.

"After seeing a picture of Hildegard I wrote to her and through this medium we decided to be married."

Johnson left the states on the Queen Mary and landed in London, England on October 12. From London he took a boat across the English Channel and boarded a train to Germany.

The wedding took place soon after Johnson arrived in Germany. The ceremony was not elaborate, Johnson said, with only members of the family and close friends attending.

The minister, who could not speak English, handed to the groom a copy of the vows which he related in German. The vow, which is unusual, was as follows:

Arthur Johnson, I ask you in God's name
Are you willing to take Hildegard Zitelmann
As your wife from God's hands
To live together after God's ordinance
In the holy estate of matrimony?
Will you love her in holiness and honour,
and keep her in sickness and health,
In poverty and riches
Till death do you part?
If such is your heart's will and intention confess it here and now
Before God and these Christian witnesses and say Yes, I will.

The best man, a Lieutenant Clements, was once a prisoner of war in Michigan, where he made friends and liked this country so much that he expressed a desire to return. Clements is a mechanic and teaches English as a side line with the bride being one of his pupils. Mrs. Johnson, who is progressing well in the study of English, finds it hard to translate her thoughts, said her husband.

After the two ceremonies were over, one having been performed at the mayor's office and the other at the church, the newlyweds were entertained at a reception in the bride's home for nearly eight hours. Johnson stated that this is the custom and that it usually lasts all night. Also according to custom the bride's father broke one end of a rope placed across the door of the house in order to let the couple enter.

After the reception, the bride and groom went to Hamburg, Germany, where they called on the American consul. At Ludenburg, Germany, they stayed at the Hotel Deutsch, the bridal suite once occupied by the late Kaiser and his bride.

Johnson thoughtfully commenting on European hotels stated that one's shoes were placed outside the door at night and the next morning they had been shined.

In relating the conditions of the European countries Johnson stated that the people were unusually well dressed and fed. "They are attempting to re-build and seldom do you hear any mention of another war or strife." said Johnson. In fact they are less concerned than we are, he said.

"I also found that food and housing was a lot cheaper in Germany than at home, but clothes are much higher there than they are here."

Mrs. Johnson will reside with her parents in Hildesheim until immigration papers are approved. Her father is a watch maker in the town, which Johnson related to be about the size of Shreveport.

The Communists were successful in defeating N. G. Renga, who was the Congress party chieftain in the Andhra area but quit just before the election.

FRENCH CABINET CRISIS IS OVER

Youngest Premier Since 1875 Will Hea Government

Paris, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Edgar Faure, at 43 France's youngest premier since 1875, worked today to put together another center-coalition cabinet that would end his nation's political crisis, now in its 11th day.

Behind him was a big 01-101 confirmation vote last night from the national assembly. The result drew heavy applause from the benches of the center parties, but Faure still must form a several-party team.

His victory margin on the confidence vote was so large because Gen. Charles de Gaulle's RPF (rally of the French people), largest single party bloc in the assembly, abstained from the vote. The Communists voted against Faure, and the extreme-right Gaullists were tired of being in the same voting column with their extreme-left arch enemies, the Reds.

The debate before the vote indicated the new premier would have one of the same troubles that brought the downfall of his predecessor, Rene Pleven — uncertain support from the big Socialist bloc of 104 members. In announcing that his party would vote to confirm Faure, Socialist Deputy Marcel David told the assembly:

"We mean to allow France to be administered, but it goes without saying we remain free on all further decisions."

This made it likely Faure's cabinet, like Pleven's, would have no Socialists and would have to woo the party for its support on many controversial issues. The cabinet most likely will be drawn from Faure's own middle-of-the-road party, the radical Socialists; the Catholic MRP (Popular Republican Movement) and the Conservative independent group.

When Faure gets his team together, he will face another test vote in the assembly.

His confirmation yesterday came after a "butter as well as guns" speech in which he cited both the "defense front against foreign aggression" and the "defense against the despair inevitably born of poverty."

MARRIED IN GERMANY

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson, above, were married in a Lutheran Church in Hildesheim, Germany on October 27. The bride, who is the former Hildegard Zitelman, is a stenographer and made the acquaintance of Johnson's sister while the latter was stationed in Europe after the war. Johnson, who is wire chief for the Missouri Pacific railroad in Monroe, states that his wife will arrive in the States as soon as immigration papers are approved.

Large Number Of Aliens Deported

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Ninety-two aliens were deported today on the Italian liner Saturnia, the largest number aboard one ship in "a long long time," immigration officials said.

Most of the all-male group were seamen who had jumped ship. Others were stowaways and aliens who had overstayed their visas.

The United States is paying their fares, about $180 each, to places like Italy, Portugal, Greece, Turkey, Palestine, Egypt, Transjordan, Yemen, British Somaliland, Iran and Malta.

Eden Reports Churchill's Progress To British King

London, Jan. 19. —(AP)— Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden went to Sandringham castle tonight to report to the vacationing king on the results of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's Washington visit.

Eden, who traveled to Norfolk by car, made the visit at the king's request. Such reports to the king are a traditional courtesy carried over from the days when the monarchy was absolute.

Rodeo Rider Riled, Kicks Wall, Breaks Broken Leg

Denver, Jan. 19. —(AP)— Joe Bonner, 25, a rodeo rider, broke his right leg twice in less than a week —the second time in an argument with his wife.

He was injured first when thrown during a stock show rodeo performance Sunday. After he got home from the hospital yesterday, he and his wife had words.

Bonner told police he became so riled up that he kicked the wall. His mistake was using his injured leg instead of the good one.

Stassen Says Eisenhower Is 'An Available Draftee'

San Francisco, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Harold E. Stassen, asked today to give a description of five star General Eisenhower's candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, replied:

"An available draftee."

Eisenhower announced in Paris he would be available for the nomination, but would not take part in any pre-convention campaigning or activity.

Maine was the first state to ratify the proposed 22nd Amendment to the U. S. Constitution. It would limit to two the number of terms any person may serve as President of the United States.

NO MAJOR LEAGUE EXHIBITIONS FOR MONROE

MANASSEH FAILS IN DRIVE TO LAND BROWN-CUB TILT

Status Of Sports' Al Mazur Still Uncertain

Last chance for a major league exhibition game in Monroe this spring seemed to have gone by with the announcement yesterday that the St. Louis Browns and Chicago Cubs would not play here. Business Manager Paul Manasseh of the Monroe Sports revealed that his attempts to get the two big league teams to switch their scheduled tilt from Shreveport to Monroe had been rejected by Vice-President Jim Gallagher of the Cubs and President Bill Veeck of the Brownies.

Manasseh said he had contacted Veeck at the World Series in an effort to change the game from Shreveport to Monroe. The two teams are slated to play in the northwest Louisiana metropolis on April 7, six days after the Boston Red Sox will be there and two days before the New York Giants and Cleveland Indians tangle there.

In view of this, Manasseh claimed, the Cubs and Browns, eighth place finishers in the National and American leagues in 1951, wouldn't "draw flies in Shreveport." In view of the limited major league exhibition in the Twin Cities in recent years. Manasseh claimed, the two teams would draw much better in Monroe.

Veeck told the local B. M. he'd think about it, and recently Gallagher was contacted, but informed Manasseh that the change could not be effected.

"So it looks like Monroyans will have to travel 105 miles westward to see major league activity," Manasseh said. "President Bonneau Peters also tried to convince Veeck and Gallagher of the advantages of the move in spite of the fact that Shreveport would get 25 percent of the net gate while Monroe would get only 20 per cent. But the boys in the big leagues can't see the forest for the trees. If they draw 2,000 in Shreveport, I'll be mighty surprised."

Meanwhile, Manasseh is attempting to line up an attractive exhibition schedule. The late starting date of the Cotton States League is precluding the scheduling of any AAA or AA teams here since Monroe won't start spring training until around April 1 and it will take a week to round the club into shape for a game.

By that time, Manasseh noted, the higher classification clubs will have passed through here on their way north.

"It's another indication of the folly of playing a 126 game schedule," he said. "Greenville and Monroe voted against this in the league meeting last fall, but the other clubs wanted to cut the schedule by 14 games."

Manasseh had no comment about the eighth club in the venerable Class C. circuit. A vacancy developed when Jackson, Miss., which purchased the Clarksdale franchise last month, could not secure a playing site and was forced to turn the franchise back to the league.

"I can't say anything about this because I don't know anything about it," he pointed out. "Haraway (Al Haraway, the league president) hasn't informed me of anything about this. All I know is what I saw in the newspapers which is what every fan saw."

Questioned about who would manage the Sports this year, Manasseh would not hazard a guess.

"We'll have something in the next two or three weeks," he said. "Mickey Livingston, the new Shreveport manager, will be in Shreveport early next month for a meeting of the organization and we expect to know by then whether Al Mazur will return and, if not, whether a 1951 Shreveport player will get the job."

There has been much speculation that the popular skipper of the past two years would not return. It is understood that he has a good position with a motor freight company in Shreveport and is seriously considering retiring from baseball.

Manasseh expects to begin sale of fence and scorecard advertising this week and box seat holders of 1951 will receive notice soon of their first call on their seats for this year.

One added note was revealed by Manasseh who said that the second row of boxes had been elevated from three to five inches by the pouring of an additional layer of concrete.

"This will give those seat-holders a better view of the playing field," Manasseh pointed out, "and continues our policy of trying to give the fans of northeast Louisiana the finest baseball plant in the league."

Tough Mat Quartet Signed For Relay Scramble Here

L. S. U. Soph, Bob Pettit, Smashes 2 Spivey Records, Leaves Bengal Fans Agog After 1st Dozen Tilts

By Edwin Pope

Baton Rouge, La. Jan. 19—(NEA)—Basketball's sophomore sensation is a local boy made good: Louisiana State's Bob Pettit, six feet nine inches tall and still no goon.

In his first dozen games, the 205-pound 19-year-old has smashed two Southeastern Conference individual scoring records. One ofthe records he now holds he had already broken earlier in the season, and the other he had earlier tied. L. S. U. fans are already wondering how many more he'll set. He's the hottest thing on a Tiger cage floor since the days of "Sparky" Wade in the early 1930s.

Only last night Pettit set the S. E. C. individual scoring record of 50 points in the rout of Georgia, 98-60. In the same game he set a new field goal record of 22. Earlier in the season he had tied the scoring record of 40 previously set by Kentucky's Bill Spivey. He had also set the field goal record, broken last night, when he hooped 19 against Ole Miss.

His 50 points last night also leads the nation for this season.

Last official N. C. A. A. scoring records showed Pettit second in the nation behind Clyde Lovellette of Kansas with a 24.2 average for ten games. Lovellette had a 26.8 average. Pettit has since hopped 25 points in the 103-78 rout of Mississippi State and the 50 against Georgia for 317 points in 12 games, an average of 26.5.

Robert Lee Pettit, Jr., majors in insurance and real estate, and Harry Rabenhorst, L. S. U.'s coacn calls him the best young piece of property in the game.

"I have never been fooled so completely," says Rabenhorst, who has been coaching 27 years. "We knew from watching Pettit make prep All - America at Baton Rouge High that he had amazing possibilities. But we felt sure that it would take him at least the usual season of orientation to hit his stride."

In his first college game, Pettit, tipping, hooking with either hand from any distance, hitting with a long overhead shot, plunked in 23 points. Bob got 17 against Rice, 31 against Alabama. Ironically, he reached his 19th birthday with a bad night — only 16 points against Mississippi State.

An evening later, he redeemed himself with vigor, smashed to 40 points against Mississippi, tying Spivey's single - game Southeastern Conference scoring record and banking 19 of 29 field goals to bust the Lexington luminary's mark of 16 goals in one game.

Bob Pettit

On his next trip, against unbeaten Texas, the lanky lad sunk 30 points.

Last week Pettit was held to ten points by Vanderbilt but he really redeemed himself against Mississippi State and Georgia this week.

Rabenhorst had to journey no farther than a couple of miles to watch Pettit develop. In his senior year at Baton Rouge High, his phenomenal protege scored 501 points in 23 games.

With Pettit, B. R. H. S. won 17 straight. Bob came down with the mumps, missed nine games. Baton Rouge lost all nine.

Lots of the kid's proclivities must be genetic for his six-foot four-inch father was a football and baseball star at Westminster College in Denver, Colo.

Apropos of something, the Iron Man's pop is a hardware dealer.

Bob Pettit himself is a Dixieland jazz follower. Right now you can't get much argument that he isn't playing the sweetest tune on twine of any sophomore in America.

The Tigers now take a week off for final examinations. They return to action January 26 against Tulane in New Orleans and then swing east for Games with Ole Miss, Tennessee and Georgia Tech.

Sunshine Starts On Tuneful Note

Oldsmar, Fla., Jan. 19. —(AP)— Sunshine Park opened its 49-day racing season today with a new betting mark. Attendance was near the all-time high at the track at an estimated 7,500.

The mutuel handle was $209,306, topping last year's opening day take of $179,505. The previous betting high was $193,274, made on the last day of the 1951 season.

Choice Cut, from the Char-Mar farms, won the feature $1,200 handicap.

Charlie Clark was the jockey, pinch hitting for Jimmy Vinson who was thrown in the fourth and shaken up. Clark had a good day in the saddle, riding Black Mittens in the third to a long shot win.

Bernie Moose, the favorite, broke third, stayed that way most of the race and finished in the place spot.

Is There came up in the last 200 yards to nose out Brezno for the show position in a photo finish.

Campbell's Bluebird Quits Mothballs For New Shot At Records

Daytona Beach, Fla., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The late Sir Malcolm Campbell's Bluebird, the world's most famous racing car, will return next month to Daytona Beach where it traveled at 276.82 miles an hour 17 years ago.

Capt. Sherman F. Crise of Miami has brought the Bluebird out of retirement in England and plans to revamp it for new assaults on the world's land speed record.

After its Daytona Beach showing, the Bluebird with Sir Malcolm at the wheel made a two-way average of 301.13 miles an hour on the salt flats of Utah. That world mark was set in 1935.

The Bluebird is to be displayed here Feb. 3 through 10th by arrangement with Bill Tuthill, executive secretary of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Crise is installing a new airplane engine in the Bluebird and in addition will equip the car with jato (jet assist) units to give added bursts of speed. The work is being performed at Patterson, N. J., under direction of Frank Delroy, noted racing mechanic.

RICHARDSON OUT OF ANZAC EVENT

Baton Rouge Star Bows Before Frank Sedgman

Adelaide, Australia, Jan. 19. —(AP)— Dick Savitt, Orange, N. J., and most of the other favorites including Frank Sedgman advanced in the Australian National Tennis Championships today.

Savitt had no trouble capturing his second round match from Neil Fraser, a junior southpaw, while Sedgman brushed Hamilton Richardson, Baton Rouge, La., only other American competing, right out of the tournament. A gusty wind caused some trouble.

Both were straight set affairs, Savitt winning 6 - 1, 6 - 1, 6 - 2. Sedgman won by 6 - 4, 6 - 4, 6 - 0 from the American youngster, who realized he had no chance against the great Aussie star. Richardson, nevertheless, played with fine spirit and pulled off many brilliant shots.

Ken McGregor beat Don Yates, South Australian, 6 - 1, 8 - 6, 6 - 1, but the experts said McGregor's form wasn't good enough to indicate he might have any chance against Savitt if they meet in the semi - finals of their bracket.

There was one upset, as Geoff Brown defeated Lewis Hoad, a seeded player and the Australian junior champion, 7 - 5, 2 - 6, 3 - 6, 6 - 3, 6 - 3, in the only five - set match of the day.

Mervyn Rose struggled through four sets to defeat Oliver Wilderspin, 6 - 2, 6 - 4, 4 - 6, 9 - 7, while Ian Ayre eliminated Adrian Quist, former Davis Cupper, 8-10, 6-1, 6-3.

In other matches, Don Candy defeated George Worthington, 6 - 8, 9 - 7, 6 - 3, 6 - 4 and Ken Rosewall defeated Brian Strohfeldt, 6 - 0, 6 - 2, 7 - 9, 6 - 4.

Merriman, Stallcup Sign For Cincinnati Campaign

Cincinnati, Jan. 19. —(AP)— Two more members of the Cincinnati Reds baseball team signed their 1952 contracts and a third agreed verbally to terms. One of the signers probably won't be around however, when the season rolls around.

Those who signed were Outfielder Lloyd Merriman and Shortstop Virgil Stallcup. Outfielder Johnny Wyrostek told the Reds' front office by telephone that he was satisfied.

Merriman is the doubtful starter since he has received a call to return to duty with the marine air corps.

West Point Quint Edged By Fordham Rams, 74-70

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Although Fred Meyers of Army pumped in 21 points, the Cadet basketball team lost to Fordham today, 74 to 70. Except for a brief point in the opening quarter Army never held the lead.

The Fordhamites were in front, 36 to 33, at the half and held that narrow margin all the way.

The first tie game a Bobby Dodd-coached team ever played came when his Georgia Tech eleven deadlocked with Duke, 14-14. It was the lone blur on Tech's '51 record.

Redlegs Sell Blackburn Outright To Kansas City

Cincinnati, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds announced tonight the outright sale of rangy Pitcher Jim Blackburn to Kansas City of the American Association.

Blackburn, a right - hander who stands six-feet, three inches and weighs 175 pounds, played parts of two seasons with the Reds. The 27-year-old hurler appeared in two Cincinnati games last season, but had no record. His 1951 record with Tulsa of the Texas League was 10 won, 12 lost.

Two More Cars Listed For Speedway Classic

Indianapolis, Jan. 19. —(AP)—Cars to be driven by Jack McGrath, Glendale, Calif., and Bill Schindler, Freeport, N. Y., were entered today for the Indianapolis 500 - mile race May 30.

McGrath, who ranked No. 4 in American Automobile Association-sanctioned big car racing last year, will drive the same Hinkle Special he and relief driver Manuel Ayulo piloted to third place in the 1951 Indianapolis race.

Schindler will drive a new Chapman Special entered by H. A. Chapman of Tulsa, Okla. He was forced out of last year's race by a broken connecting rod in another Chapman Special.

FARMER BROWN, ELLIS BASHARA ON KALLIO CARD

Team With Jack Curtis, MacDonald Here Tuesday

Wrestling at Gus Kallio's Arena goes big-time Tuesday night as a collection of some of the best wrestlers who have ever appeared on a card come together in a tag team match.

Heading the list is Farmer Brown, husky, bearded backwoods matman, who has taken on some of the best wrestlers in the world. Brown's partner in the tag team match will be former world's light heavyweight cahmpion, Jack Curtis, one of the best-known and best liked matmen ever to appear here.

On the opposite side of the card is "Sockeye" McDonald, "squat, tough, and powerful wrestler who has appeared here twice in the last six years. Ellis Bashera, who appeared here early last summer, rounds out the program as McDonald's partner.

Most colorful of all the wrestlers in Farmer Brown, a star in television wrestling. Brown, a backwoods farmer with a heavy beard, will have in his corner Daisy May, a back-country girl who will direct Brown's activities in the ring.

Brown wrestles a powerful match and dresses the part of the most savage of deep country people. Hailing from the woods of Kentucky, Brown wrestles in pair of bluejeans tied on with a rope and with feet bare. He uses his bulk to dispose of most of his opponents.

His partner, Curtis, needs no introduction to Monroe fans as he makes this city a part of his regular wrestling activities. Curtis has met every opponent on equal terms and has not yet come out the final loser in any series of bouts.

Curtis has lost several bouts here but he always manages to come back for the second time and take at least one win from all of them.

Ellis Bashera, mustachioed matman from Norman, Okla., appeared in Monroe early last summer and took part in several bouts before he moved on. He is well-known here and is a master wrestler.

His partner, McDonald, is a tough ex-lumber jack from the northwestern country. McDonald has wrestled here twice in the last two weeks but they were the first matches he had appeared in here in over six years.

The burly lumberjack made his last two appearances here as a partner to world's light heavyweight champion Sugi Hayamaka. He and the champion took on Jack and George Curtis in both matches, winning the first and losing the second.

Kallio said last night that only three times in the years that he has been putting on wrestling shows here has his place been filled to capacity. "I expect Tuesday night's performance to do the same thing," he said.

There will be two short time-limit matches between opponents from the different tag teams, Kallio said. The first match will get under way at 8 o'clock, with the others to follow immediately.

Information on the sale of advance tickets, Kallio stated, can be quickly obtained by calling his arena.

Halfback Roy Thompson made the longest run from scrimmage in Florida State University football history when he dashed 76 yards against Stetson U.

Yanks Trim Farm System In Quest For 'Quality Instead Of Quantity'

New York, Jan. 19. —(AP)— The New York Yankees, who have been building world championship baseball teams from their farm clubs for years, announced today they would have only 10 such affiliates in 1952.

This is a reduction of four clubs since the close of the 1951 season, said general manager George M. Weiss, who listed three major reasons for the move:

1. The inroad of military draft.
2. Failure of leagues in which the Yankees had clubs.
3. Stress is being made on the quality of prospects.

Three leagues with Yankee farm clubs in 1951 folded because of the draft drain, and financial pressure. They were the Central League (Mukegon), Ohio - Indiana (Newark, Ohio), and Georgia - Alabama (LaGrange, Ga.) The Yankees turned their Amsterdam farm back last fall to the Canadian-American League whose president has been given until Feb. 1 to try to get it reorganized.

In addition, San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League was dropped, but Olean, N. Y., of the Class D Pony League was added.

"The Yankees, who once had a farm system covering 22 leagues, have found that to manpower that many clubs the scouts often lowered their sights as to quality," Weiss' statement said.

In this direction, the general manager said the world champions have been expanding rather than decreasing their scouting efforts.

"The recent addition of such well known scouts as Pat Patterson, in the midwest Frank O'Rourke, in the east, and Bill Harris in the Carolinas, as well as the return of Bill Skiff to a scouting portfolio are ample indications that the Yankees will leave nothing undone which might turn up hot Yankee prospects."

Weiss declared that when the farm system contained 22 teams, more quantity than quality was turned up.

"The net result was the acquisition of too many players who were not regarded, even by the Yankees, as major leagure prospects. Under the current streamlined set up, talent - seekers on the Yankee staff are seeking players who appear to have a Yankee uniform in their future."

Weiss said Skiff, Johnny Neun and Burleigh Grimes would have no definite area assignments as scouts. They will act as troubleshooters, giving special aid to Yankee farmhands and to Yankee minor league managers.

The Yankee specialized training school, from which Mickey Mantle, Gil McDougald and Tom Morgan graduated to the Bronx Bombers last spring, will be held again at Lake Wales, Fla., starting Feb. 15. It will be in charge of Casey Stengel and his Yankee coaches.

This is the 1952 Yankee farm system:

Kansas City, American Association; Beaumont, Texas League; Binghamton, N. Y., Eastern League; Norfolk, Va., Piedmont; Quincy, Ill., Three - I; Joplin, Mo., Western Association; Boise, Idaho, Pioneer; Fond Du Lac, Wis., Wisconsin State; McAlester, Okla., Sooner State; and Olean, N. Y., Pony.

Kansas City, Binghamton and Norfolk are Yankee - owned. The others have working agreements.

DILLARD TO PASS UP SPRINT EVENT

Figures Speed Gone; To Work On High Hurdles

Philadlphia, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Harrison Dillard, Olympic 100 meter champian, revealed today he would let his sprint title won at London go by default and concentrate instead on the 110-meter high hurdle race at Helsinki.

Age has caught up with him. So he will try to do with skill what he knows he cannot do with sheer speed. But probably the biggest obstacle to winning another Olympic gold medal is not age but a big world hurdle record holder—Dick Attlesey.

"It's a question of speed," Dillard said after winning the 50-yard high hurdles in sparkling form at the Philadelphia Inquirer games.

"You don't get any more speed at the age of 29. I can only run the 100 yards in 9.7. There are too many running it in 9.6. Maybe I could get down to 9.6, but what's the use?"

In 1948 Dillard tried to make the American Olympic team in both the 100 meters and the high hurdles. He was world high hurdle record holder then, but he lost his stride in the final American trial and pulled up helplessly at the sixth hurdle. He qualified in the sprint, and to the great surprise of the world won the 100 meter crown at London.

"I'm in fair shape now," said the slender Negro who works in the publicity department of the Cleveland Indian baseball team. "I don't think I can get back to my hurdle times of four years ago, but I can try. My ambition is to make the team for Helsinki."

Mickey Owen To Coach For Blues

Kansas City, Jan. 19. —(AP)— Mickey Owen, 35, a National League baseball player 13 years, has been signed as catcher and coach of the Kansas City American Association club, Manager Parke Carroll announced tonight.

Owen, whose home is Springfield, Mo., was released last month by the Chicago Cubs with whom he played three seasons. He caught all games in 1949 and 1950 and 58 games in 1951.

Previously Owen was six years with the Brooklyn Dodgers and four years with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Owen returned from army service in World War II in 1945 and early the next year jumped to the Mexican League. He was reinstated in June, 1949, and sold to the Cubs by Brooklyn.

OLYMPIC GAMES DUE TO ATTRACT GREATER ENTRY

56 Nations Already In Line For Summer Show

Helsinki, Jan. 19. —(AP)— With the Olympic games scheduled to begin exactly six months from today, Finnish sports leaders said they expected more nations will compete than in the last Olympics at London in 1948.

Fifty - six nations, including Russia, have so far announced they will take part in the games from July 19 to Aug. 3 in Helsinki. At London, 59 nations participated, but it is expected that even more will be represented here when the games open.

No nation has definitely declined an invitation, and the deadline for entries is June 1.

All preparations are progressing smoothly, said Erik Von Frenckel, president of the Finnish Olympic committee.

"Small difficulties certainly will come up until the last days, but today we feel sure that everything will be all right."

Kallio Kotkas, chief of the Olympic central bureau, also was optimistic.

"In many ways we even are far ahead of the preliminary time table," he said.

This is the case with the Olympic village, where thousands of the athletes will be accomodated during the games. Besides this, the new Helsinki airport is rapidly being built up.

Olympic officials here expect that far more athletes will compete in this year's games than in 1948. So far, 3,866 have been registered and the total will probably exceed by about 20 per cent the number of participators in London, which was around 4,000.

The following 56 nations have accepted invitations so far:

Sweden, Switzerland, Bulgaria, Belgium, the United States, Germany, Yugoslavia, Denmark, Canada, Great Britain, Saar, Pakistan, France, Greece, Egypt, Puerto Rico, Liberia, Italy, Peru, Norway, Iceland, Australia, Argentine, Austria, Uruguay, Iran, Chile, The Netherlands, Poland, Mexico, the Antilles, Ceylon, the Gold Coast, New Zealand, Burma, Hong Kong, Panama, Paraguay, Eire, Jamaica, Luxembourg, South Africa, Turkey, Rumania, the Philippines, Portugal, Trinidad, Finland, Japan, Singapore, Brazil, India, The Soviet Union, Siam, Bermuda, Spain.

Final 18 Of 72 - hole Open Comes Up Today

By Bob Myers

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 19.—(AP)— A pair of comparative strangers to tournament fame, Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y., and Felice Torza, St. Charles, Ill., staged a seesaw battle in the $10,000 San Diego Open today, but the pace setting Kroll stayed on top of the heap as the third round ended.

The friendly, 32 - year - old New Yorker missed a sub-par performance for the first time but his par 72 was good enough to keep him in the front with a 54-hole total of 206.

Kroll, in previous tours of the par 36-36—72 San Diego Country Club, had turned in rounds of 65 and 69.

Torza, one time leading amateur from Connecticut, starting four strokes behind Kroll today, passed him at one stage but fell back badly on the last nine and finished with a 71, for 209 and still three strokes behind the leader.

Crowding the picture, and in one position for tomorrow's final 18 holes, were three contestants tied at 210. One was the stretch-charging Jimmy Demaret, whose 68 followed a 69 yesterday after a 73 the first day. Others were Jay Hebert, a youngster from Great Neck, L. I., with a 70, and Gene Littler, San Diego amateur, with a great 67.

Leading scores:

Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y., 65-69-72—206.

Felice Torza, St. Charles, Ill., 68-70-71—209.

Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif., 73-69-68—210.

Gene Littler, San Diego, 70-73-67—210.

Jay Herbert, Great Neck, L. I., 69-71-70—210.

Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, 73-69-69—211.

Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, 68-75-69—212.

Ed Furgol, St. Louis, 71-69-72—212.

Al Bessalink, Miami, 69-73-70—212.

Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., 73-69-71—213.

Jike Homa, W. Hartford, Conn., 72-70-71—213.

Tommy Bolt, Durham, N. C., 68-72-73—213.

Shuler Registers With Even Par 70

Stanton Shuler, C. B. McMahon and H. G. Prophit shared honors in a Canadian sweepstakes tourney yesterday as golfers of Bayou DeSiard Country Club took advantage of balmy weather to get in a good round of golf.

Shuler fired an even par 70 for the 18 - hole distance for low gross. McMahon and Prophit tied for the low net lead with 67 each. W. S. Shafto was third with a 68 net.

Other net scores were Clyde Nash 74, Bill Jones 70, W. C. Crowell 71, Jimmy Rivers 71, Jack Cottrell 74, Charlie Siess 72, "Shep" Girault 74, O. L. McCleary 76, Burt Sperry 73, J. S. Washburn 73, W. Hammock Or $10,000 Raise For Beto Avila

Mexico City, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A Mexican paper said today that Beto Avila, the Cleveland Indians' second baseman, thinks the $15,000 the club has offered him for next season is just about $10,000 too little.

The sports daily "Esto" quoted the Mexican player as saying that he would spend the season in his hammock at home in Veracruz unless the offer is increased.

GREEK SHIP COPS ROYAL PALM RUN

Three Rings Fails In In Bid For Fourth Win

Miami, Fla., Jan. 19. — Greek Ship, the Brookmeade stable's "Mighty Mouse," outlasted six hard - driving opponents in a close, tough race today to capture Hialeah's $10,000 - added Royal Palm Handicap.

Although lugging the heaviest load of 122 pounds, the small brown horse known around the stables as "Mighty Mouse" because of his habit of beating the giants on his good days, bested C. B. Bohn's Why Not Now in the final charge to win by half a length.

Woolford Farm's Saxony was third, three quarters of a length behind Why Not Now and a nose in front of Mrs. E. L. Hopkins' Three Rings, who was making a futile effort to capture the Royal Palm for the fourth successive year.

A solid choice of the 18,390 fans at 9 to 5, Greek Ship, winner of five stakes and runner - up in five others during the 1950 campaign but less successful last year, added another $8,425 to the Brookmeade coffers and returned $5.70 to the straight bettors. His time for the mile and a furlong was 1:49 2-5.

Why Not Now paid $11 to place and Saxony $3.70 to show.

A victory for Three Rings, winner of half of the earlier sixth running of the Royal Palm, would have made him the second thoroughbred in racing history to win one stake four times in a row. Exterminator took the Saratoga Cup in succession from 1919 through 1922.

Betting on the nine - race program was $1,350,014 compared with the handle of $1,184,691 on the corresponding Saturday last year.

SUGGS IN FRONT BY THREE LICKS

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 19.—Louise Suggs slipped over par today for the first time but clung to her three stroke lead at the three-quarter mark of the Tampa Women's Open Golf Tournament.

The little Georgian shot 75, one over par, for a 54-hole total of 219. Each of the first two rounds she registered a machine-like 72 over the 6,093-yard Palma Ceia course.

Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex., moved into second place with her third straight even par 74 for a 222 total. She is a former winner of this tournament, in which Miss Suggs has been second all five times.

Babe Zaharias, the defending champion from Tampa, also picked up ground on Miss Suggs with a 73. Mrs. Zaharias now as 224.

The leaders:

Louise Suggs, Carrollton, Ga., 72-72-75—219.

Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Texas, 74-74-74—222.

Babe Zaharias, Tampa, 74-77-73—224.

Peggy Kirk, Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla., 75-72-80—227.

Barbara Romack, Sacramento, Calif., 79-76-75—230.

DALLAS MAY YET TAKE FRANCHISE OF GRID YANKEES

Believed Collins Ready To Throw In Towel

New York, Jan. 19. —(AP)— The New York Yanks' franchise in the National Football League will be moved to Dallas, Tex., after it has been taken over by the circuit, a representative of owner Ted Collins said tonight.

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Dallas moved to the forefront tonight as a possible site for the National Football League franchise now held by the New York Yanks.

A source close to league headquarters who declined use of his name said: "The Dallas situation is red-hot right now."

Meanwhile, the wires between New York and the Texas city were kept buzzing, with Washington owner George Marshall acting as an intermediary.

Ted Collins, owner of the frustrated Yanks who haven't been able to squeeze suitable home dates from the league, said:

"I either get six good home Sunday dates or I get out — with money."

He said flatly he would not transfer the franchise to another city. If it's sold it'll go without him.

Bert Bell, N. F. L. commissioner, said a move to Dallas would be received favorably by the club owners. He did not think travel presented a problem.

Bell said a direct bid by a Dallas party to buy the Yanks' franchise had been made through his office.

It's known that the bid is so good that some owners said they didn't see how Collins could pass it up. The offer included clearing up all New York obligations.

Baltimore and Buffalo also are said to be interested in regaining entry into big time professional football, but Commissioner Bert Bell said they had made no offer through his office.

A five - man Baltimore committee has discussed a deal with Collins, but George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, said he would not approve a Baltimore franchise under "present conditions."

Marshall, who has territorial rights for the Baltimore area, said he is opposed to two members of the Baltimore committee seeking a pro franchise. He identified them as R. C. Embry and Howard Busick, who he says have fought him at every turn.

Meanwhile, a battery of attorneys advised the league not to retreat in its television stand despite a pending anti-trust suit by the government.

Fox, Drews First To Join Phillies

Philadelphia, Jan. 19. —(AP)— Pitchers Howie Fox and Karl Drews are the first Philadelphia Phillies' players to sign 1952 contracts, club President Bob Carpenter announced today.

Fox was acquired during the off season in a trade between the Phils and Cincinnati in which Catcher Andy Seminick, Outfielder Dick Sisler and rookie southpaw Niles Jordan went to Cincinnati and Fox, Catcher Forest Burgess and Infielder Connie Ryan moved to Philadelphia.

Drews came to the Phillies late last season from the club's Baltimore farm team in the International League.

Cotton

New York

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Cotton futures closed firm today. A general covering movement was attracted in late dealings and with offerings scarce the market rallied briskly. Much of the late buying was based on technical considerations in view of recent sharp declines. A good many traders desired to be in liquid position.

Futures closed 35 cents to $1.15 a bale higher than the previous close.

New Orleans, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced here today on trade buying and week-end short covering. Closing prices were steady 50 cents to 85 cents a bale higher.

Middling 15/16 inch spot cotton advanced one dollar a bale to 41.60 cents a pound. Local spot sales amounted to 2,468 bales.

MOVES TO STALL

any recommendation the president makes along these lines will be rejected by congress."

Senator Douglas (D.-Ill.), on the other hand, said congress "should not consider tax rate increases until after we have closed existing loopholes." In an address prepared for broadcast (WGN, Chicago), Douglas specifically mentioned among others the oil and gas depletion allowances, which he said cost the treasury some 750 million dollars a year.

"We've raised personal income taxes and excise taxes twice since the outbreak of war in Korea," Douglas said. "But very little has been done about the loopholes; in fact, the loopholes have been broadened.

"The president did very well, I think, to urge that we get busy and end a lot of these special privileges. I'm for that."

Reed said the kind of study of the tax situation he has in mind was made imperative by Mr. Truman's request for nearly five billion dollars more a year in taxes.

"We must determine just how high taxes can go without doing irreparable injury to the national economy," he said.

"My personal belief is that we have reached the limit already; that we have over - stepped ourselves in trying to provide money for the president to spend recklessly.

"The taxpayers are paying nearly one - third of their incomes for federal, state and local taxes. Incentive to produce, incentive to invest have been seriously discouraged by our unrealistic tax policies.

"It's time to bluntly tell the president and his vast army of squanderers of the public money that no more tax increases will be passed by congress until we explore the entire tax situation from all standpoints, viewpoints and angles."

vation department and Ouachita parish police jurors.

J. B. Thoman, president of the Ouachita parish unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation, stated at the meeting that the program, far from ruining sports fishing in the bayou, will be actually helpful to it.

"These commercial fisherm will take a large percentage of the 'rough' fish out of the lake and will not endanger the game fish at all," Thoman sais.

Also at the meeting was Joe Combs, chairman of the Ouachita parish game and fish commission, who said substantially the same thing as did Thoman, "It will be extremely helpful to the sports fishermen in Ouachita parish. If the fisherman will help clear the rough fish out of the water, they will have the approval of the state conservation department."

Giving their nod of approval to the tentative plans outlined at the meeting were Jack Rushing, member of the game and fish commission, and Game Wardens Horace Buckley, G. M. Collins and Leon Delee.

Thomas made a plea to sports fishermen and others using the lake to be careful of the nets set out by the commercial fishermen and reiterated that the program was of benefit to all. He pointed out that anyone deliberately destroying the nets or taking fish from the lines or traps could be prosecuted by law.

Hours on the commercial fishing were set as between sunup and sundown, during the trial period. The nets, however, will remain their most of the time and others were asked to take care that they did not entangle their boat motors in the nets. Albert Bayles, a West Monroe commercial fisherman, added that if anyone did inadvertently entangle their motors "the best way to get them out is to take off the propellor and disengage it from the net."

The fishermen discussed various objections and benefits to the plan, but agreed finally that a trial period would be the best thing to do. The meeting broke up on this note, after a date for the next meeting had been set.

acres and the return was less than $75 so I was $12 in debt after working hard to raise a crop. I told a man about my bad luck and he asked 'Who did you vote for?' I told him and he said that is why you didn't make a decent crop, you voted Republican!"

This story we are sure will have no bearing on the way Mr. Johnson votes this next fall. We are sure he will be like many others here who are now converts to the Republican party.

Immediate help was needed in flooded north California, Tuesday night, when a bad wreck had occurred in the darkness and downpour. A man with the wreck had a mobile amateur radio unit but he was unable to make nearby contacts for the entire atmosphere had gone haywire.

Ultimately the word was flashed across fully 1500 miles to a Monroe radio station that help was imperatively required. Howard Griffith's amateur station W5CNG received the word and Don Britton's station W6ZSFL, near Los Angeles, also got into communication with Monroe, but could not communicate with the scene of the wreck directly.

Through the Monroe station and the Los Angeles one, help was ultimately secured. Two bodies were removed from the wreck and several persons required hospital treatment.

Mr. Griffith's amateur station is one of the most powerful anywhere. It demonstrated how it can serve the public in time of distress.

Martha Hatchell, Key Club sweetheart at Ouachita Parish High School last year, was chosen first beauty by secret ballot in the election of senior favorites for the 1952 Roarer the past week.

Other beauties include Shirley Colby and Peggy Hibbard, Charlottee Haile and Mary Louise Crenshaw. Boys favored similarly are Shelby Spruell, drama student and Frank Swayze, football player.

Branch offices are being opened Monday in all courthouses of the 14 parishes that comprise the fifth district for the sale of 1952 auto license plates, states V. R. Tidwell, district manager. There will also be an office opened in the old West Monroe city hall.

Licenses can also be obtained in the headquarters office ground floor Heninger building and licenses for heavy trucks, boat trailers, etc., must be secured at the Monroe office.

Licenses are $3 and only one plate to an auto is now required as an economy measure. The dollar fee for title certificate is not required for those who purchased one last year.

Slade Brown, official of the Brown Paper Mill, and vice-president of the Jaycees in the Twin Cities, was speaker at the Rotary Club when he outlined some plans for putting into effect, "I'm for Industry, Industry's for Me," the industrial program that is planned by the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe.

Birthday recognitions were accorded to Henry Biedenharn and Dr. George Wright. A number of guests attended, some from considerable distance, one Fred Doyle, was from Caribou, Me., while others were: Crammon Stinton and J. D. Badgley, St. Louis., Mo., and Rotarians Mike Pedrick, Sand Springs, Okla.; L. M. Elgin, Shreveport; J. S. Tarbutton, Ruston; and Harry Marchand, Greenwood, Miss.

Winter has turned into late spring with temperatures 70 or more each day.

Shrubs and spring flowers are in bloom in many yards and a gas field worker states that he found that mayhaws have already put out their crop and many are falling to the ground. Seems quite unusual for around the middle of January!

"Wharton, Tex., Jan. 16.

"Dear Jes' Ramblin':

"This is a small world after all. Last night while listening to returns from the Louisiana election, through KWKH, I heard KMLB of Monroe. It was the first time I had heard it way down in south Texas.

"Sidney Stroud from Monroe, was here for the holidays, visiting his sister, Mrs. J. E. Croom, who lives ten miles out of Wharton. He is now home, and yesterday he wrote me a long letter.

"During Christmas I got more cards from friends all over the U. S. A. I did not know I had so many friends. Did the election suit you and the rest of Louisiana?

"We have here a man from Bernice, La. He is Wales W. Gresham and is vice-president of the Security Bank & Trust Company of Wharton. All his family still lives in Bernice. He has a wife and three children.

"Well, this is all today,

"Sincerely,

"RAE F. RINEHART."

EMPLOYMENT IN

troit, Flint and Grand Rapids, were added to the list of areas having "substantial labor surpluses," or considerable unemployment.

More than 100,000 automobile workers are idle in Detroit and additional thousands in neighboring Flint, because of government restrictions on auto making. Joblessness has doubled in a year at Grand Rapids, because of continued declines in the furniture and metal products industries.

Tobin said the extent to which unemployment can be alleviated in such "substantial labor surplus" areas — those where at least 6 per cent of all workers are without jobs — depends mainly on the success of government and industry in channeling defense contracts to them.

Details on other areas were supplied by Robert C. Goodwin, executive director of the defense manpower administration. He said Indianapolis, previously considered a tight labor area, now is classed as having a balanced labor supply. this is due to layoffs in auto parts and other industries.

The following cities previously considered as having a balanced labor supply are now classed as having a moderate labor surplus:

Amarillo, Tex.; Sacramento, Calif.; Saginaw, Mich.; Seattle, Wash.; Sioux Falls, S. D.; Spokane, Wash.; Springfield, O., and Wichita Falls, Tex.

The two areas where a tighter labor situation was noted are Orlando, Fla., and Peoria, Ill. The former is a winter resort with a normal winter pickup in tourist trade and citrus harvesting. In Peoria the number of persons idle declined with the settlement of a strike in the local farm machinery industry.

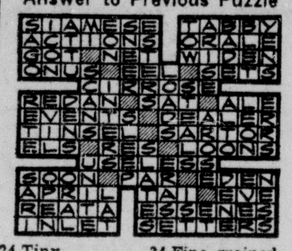
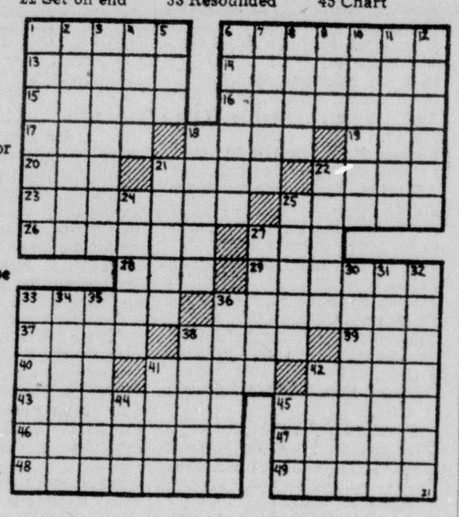
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Youth Escapes Serious Injury

Bastrop, La., Jan. 19 — (Special)—Ten-year - old Donald Ritzell tangled with 13,000 volts here today and escaped with slight shock and minor back burns, hospital authorities said.

Donald was playing with a group of youngsters in the West Side stadium when he climbed up a telephone pole. When he reached the 13,000 volt transformer, and touched it the fuse blew, firemen said. The shock caused him to fall about 25 feet to the ground.

The child was rushed to the Varnier clinic where hospital officials said he showed no signs of internal injuries.

HARBORS DELINQUENCY

New York —(AP)— An essay contest for public school janitors on prevention of destruction to school property has focused attention on vandalism and juvenile delinquency on some public school property.

The contest, sponsored by Comlissioner Charles J. Bensley, chairman of the board of education's committee on buildings and sites, was aimed at cutting down vandalism in public schools which costs the city of New York $500,000 annually.

The contest replies revealed that school property sometimes was used after hours as a place for drinking and gambling and where drunks and degenerates could menace children.

One recommendation called for floodlighting of school yards hidden to public view, strict legal enforcement against trespassers, and opening school yards to police patrol at night under certain rules.

posed and has taken these positions:

1. There should be no new limitations placed on the period of education or training to which a veteran is entitled; the policy of allowing one year of full-time training for the first 90-days plus one month for each month of active service should be continued.

2. There should be no restriction on training benefits because of a veteran's age when he entered the service, whether his education was interrupted, or because if his need for benefits.

3. Eligible veterans should be permitted to take courses of less than 30 weeks, at their option, instead of longer courses to which they are entitled.

4. The new veterans should have four years in which to take up training benefits and nine years in which to complete their courses.

5. The veteran should not be required to pay half of the tuition costs for his training; a maximum tuition-and-fee ceiling of $400 might be acceptable.

6. Subsistence payments should be allowed for veterans who take part-time training.

The legion, Munson said, doesn't look on the training benefits as a bonus.

"We want good training and will support every effort of the government to get a dollars worth of training for every dollar spent," he said regarding abuses of the program reported by the Teague committee, Munson said they cannot be traced to the veterans, but have been the result of faulty administration by the VA or the training schools. And while the veterans might have been involved in irregularities, he said, they did not bring them about.

Many Thanks! 12,034 Times

TO THE PEOPLE WHO SO LOYALLY VOTED FOR ME.

MY DEEPEST APPRECIATION ALSO GOES TO THE YOUNG PEOPLE WHO SUPPORTED ME, THAT WERE UNABLE TO VOTE.

It is said "there is a time for everything, a time for working, resting, living, and certainly a time for gratitude. So it has come my time to sincerely thank you voters for re-electing me. Should I fail to take time to do this I would be like, the animal under a tree eating acorns, but never bothering to look up to see where the acorns were coming from.

I feel deeply grateful and humble that you have again showed your confidence in me and I promise that I shall never betray your faith. I am keenly aware that to be re-elected has a greater honor than to be elected the first time, for in re-election one has had the opportunity to demonstrate his capability and trust-worthiness.

Your interest and welfare is always first and foremost in my thoughts. Never for a moment have I wavered in my representation of you; though many times great and powerful odds were so strongly against me that I felt I was one crying out in the wilderness. Often when the odds were so against me and I was having to battle strong political factions I would draw strength from Abraham Lincoln's words "I am not bound to win, but I am bound to give my best. I am not bound to succeed but I am bound to do right, as God has given me the wisdom to know what is right. I must stand for & with anyone who stands for right and part with him when he goes the wrong way for goodness is the only investment that never fails."

Again I say, "Thank you for your vote and support in my re-election as your representative."

SLADE BROWN IS CLUB SPEAKER

Elicits Enthusiastic Support For Industrial Committee, Inc.

Enthusiastic and voluntary support is essential for the success of the Industrial Development Committee, Inc., Slade Brown told Rotarians Thursday. Brown, president of the newly-formed organization, outlined the work accomplished and the potential strength of the corporation during the club's luncheon meeting at the Virginia Hotel.

Conceived by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Industrial Development Committee was proposed to encourage industries to come to Ouachita Parish.

The budget of the Chamber of Commerce is too limited to accomplish the work which the Industrial speaker explained. This caused Committee is attempting to do, the the Jaycees to take over the initial steps in setting into motion the plan for developing industries in this area.

Members have called on 175 business firms to secure ideas for the project. Then came the decision to form a corporation, considered essential to secure funds that are necessary to effect industrial plans.

Growth of the corporation has resulted in the raising of a small amount over the minimum sum which the Jaycees considered a requirement in establishing the Industrial Development Committee.

The Committee needs to call on 200 or more business firms, Brown said. Members should not have to contact every business organization, he declared. These companies should offer their support before it is asked.

Selection of a director will be another important step in the effectiveness of the Industrial Development Committee, the speaker explained. From 37 applications, several have been interviewed. The choice of a director will be made with greater care as the committee only one "who is tops."

Kathleen Brown McKay Is Bride Of Joe Larson Ragland

Bridal Couple Exchange Nuptial Vows At Alto Baptist Church

A twilight ceremony characterized by elegant simplicity united in marriage Miss Kathleen Brown McKay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bennett McKay, of Alto, and Mr. Joe Larson Ragland, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Ragland of this city.

The marriage ceremony was performed at Alto Baptist Church on December 30th at five o'clock in the afternoon by Rev. Allen Buckley, pastor of the church at Alto, in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives.

The candles flooding the church with a lovely half glow, were lighted by Mr. Wilbur McKay of Vicksburg, Miss., brother of the bride, and Mr. Edwin Jones of Monroe, brother-in-law of the groom.

The church was decorated in beautiful simplicity having white gladioli in massive urns entwined with southern smilax, placed at advantageous points along the chancel rail and in front of the altar. The choir loft was also entwined with smilax interspersed with candles.

While the ushers, Mr. Wilbur McKay and Mr. Edwin Jones were seating the guests, the pianist, Mrs. C. Wilburn Pardue of Alto, gave the nuptial concert which included "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach, "Arioso" by Handel, and "Panis Angelicus" by Fansk. The soloist, Mrs. E. E. Thomason of Alto, sang in beautiful voice "O Perfect Love" by J. Barnby. The traditional wedding marches were used as a processional and recessional. During the ceremony Debussy's "Clair de Lune" was played very softly.

The bride's mother walked down the aisle just before the entrance of the wedding party. She wore a chic model of navy blue wool with a pale pink hat. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Lovely dubonnet velveteen afternoon dresses with matching hats were worn by the matron of honor, Mrs. L. J. Mulhern of Alto and the maid of honor, Miss Mary Elizabeth Hicks, of Bryan, Tex. The junior bridesmaid, little Miss Sue Keen of Alto, niece of the bride, was similarly gowned. They all carried picturesque muffs of dubonnet velveteen, centered with pink camellias.

Mr. McKay gave his daughter in marriage and walked with her to the altar where the groom awaited with Mr. Roy B. McKay of Alto, brother of the bride, who served as the best man.

The bride, radiantly beautiful, was gowned in a dress of pink velveteen. The bodice was fashioned along tight fitting lines, the skirt falling in a graceful flare. The sleeves were short and she wore long pink gloves of the same material as her dress. She carried a white Bible from which fell a shower bouquet of white hyacinth. A distinctive feature of her ensemble was her hat of pink velveteen from which fell a pale pink short veil of illusion. Like all brides she observed many of the old customs of something old, something blue, and even the penny in her shoe.

A receiving line of the wedding party was formed in the vestibule of the church where the bride and groom received the fond wishes of friends and relatives.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Webster and Sandra Webster of Lufkin, Tex., Mr. M. D. Ragland and John Ragland of Memphis, Tenn., Miss Mary Elizabeth Hicks and Mr. Stuart Spoede of Bryan, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur McKay and Arthur McKay of Vicksburg, Miss., Mrs. Arthur Smith of New Orleans, La., Mrs. R. G. Stowell, Sr., Mrs. R. G. Stowell, Jr. and Kay Stowell of Demopolis, Ala., and many friends and relatives from Monroe, Rayville, Archibald, and Mangham.

Rehearsal Supper

On Saturday December 29th, preceeding the McKay-Ragland wedding, a lovely buffet supper in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McKay was enjoyed by members of the wedding party and relatives of the bride and groom. Hostesses on this occasion were Mrs. Wilbur McKay Mrs. L. J. Mulhern, and Miss Zona Morris, assisted by Mrs. R G. Stowell, Jr.

The color scheme throughout the living and dining rooms was bride's white and green. A delicious salad course, sweets, and coffee was enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Webster and Sandra Webster, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jones, Mrs. Edna Shaughnessy, Mrs. R. G. Stowell, Jr. and Kay Stowell, Miss Mary Elizabeth Hicks, Mr. Stuart Spoede, Mr. Roy B. McKay, Miss Zona Morris, Mrs. L. J. Mulhern, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur McKay and Arthur McKay, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McKay and Sue Keen, Miss Kathleen McKay, and Mr. Joe L. Ragland.

Miss McKay took this opportunity to present her attendants with gifts of pearls. Mr. Ragland gave to his attendants maroon and blue ties with white handkerchiefs. He presented the best man with gold cuff links.

Miro Book Club Members Hear Two Book Reviews

January Meeting Is Held In The Home Of Mrs. B. L. Mulhearn

Mrs. B. L. Mulhearn, president, presided at the January meeting of the Miro Book Club, which was held in her home.

The Collect was read in unison and the salute to the flag given. Following the business meeting with a full agenda, various committees reported favorably on their assignments. Practically a full membership attended this meeting with each making a silent resolution to attend the meetings and stand behind their president to put forth every effort to have Miro Book Club warrant a creditable place in Federated Club work this year.

After the completion of routine business, Mrs. Mulhearn turned the meeting over to the program chairman, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, who gave a few preliminary remarks explaining a change in her plans, after which she introduced the reviewer of the day, Mrs. W. M. Greenwell, who gave the book: "Yankee Exodus" by Stewart Hall Holbrook.

Mrs. Greenwell delighted her listeners as she, so carefully, covered her subject. The members present felt, they themselves were parties on the great migration of the New Englanders, whose pioneers must have had a good deal to do with the building of the United States lying west of Lake Champlain. This strange race of Yankees, not only permeated to every last reach of the Republic, but almost always made their impact felt, so, that a large part of the United States owes its character to the migration of New Englanders. They seemed to take with them their native inventiveness. Poor lands, heavy taxes, differing religious opinions, dislike of the climate, along with an uncommon urge to see, were its cause.

Roger Williams, though born in England, could be taken for the perfect symbol of the Yankee emigrant. To his name could be added thousands of others mentioned by the author. These pioneers soon set an orderly government and General Saint Clair was named first governor of the northwest territory, with Marietta as their capital. This Marietta colony, being a success, more Yankees migrated. Among them was Joseph Smith, who, with his parents, moved west in 1816, fleeing from the wrath of an angry God displeased with the war of 1812. With Oliver Cowdery, a school master who wrote the inspired words of Joseph, was formed the book of Mormon, called the Mormon Bible, published in New York in July of 1830.

The land these Yankees occupied, not being yet officially open to settlement, many of these pioneers or 'Foresters' as they were called, soon solved their own problems by plowing a long furrow and settled their claims. They pushed forward in all directions and we find them in what is now Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Colorado, Oregon and even in the south.

It was proper that in the course of time, institutions of learning were established among these settlers. The first of these institutions was what is known as Antioch College, then Western Reserve University, the Yale of the west. This college was the last work of perhaps the greatest Yankee educator: Horace Mann.

The inventiveness of the Yankees soon began to express itself. Patent No. 1 issued by the United States Patent Office was given to a Yankee, and for a century afterward, Yankees were to stand in the very front rank of American inventors. Women also entered in this field of inventions. Ellen Butterick, whose husband was a tailor, came up with paper patterns. In the realm of patent medicine, Lydia Estes Pinkham achieved a fame that lasted long after her death. 'Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,' the name was magic and the preparation was to become an American classic.

Many are the names of emigrants, who for one reason or another seem to be worthy of consideration. The influence of several of these men was not on one but on several states, occasionally upon the entire country.

The reviewer had prepared the members at the outset for the authenticity of this fascinating story, by recalling the life of the author, his background and knowledge as credentials to his authority in the matter.

At the conclusion of the book review, Mrs. Tidwell, next introduced Mrs. George Temple who in a most colorful manner, gave "A Treasury of Early American Homes" by Richard Pratt. Mrs. Temple spoke quite informally and from time to time, while discussing her topic, displayed authentic copies of famous homes, their architecture, their special furniture arrangements and even their color schemes so renowned in that particular era. Mrs. Temple spoke of the inconveniences the photographer of that day experienced. He had to wait for sunlight having no modern high-powered lighting to furnish the proper effect. Mr. Pratt in this magnificent study of early American homes, was forced to use homes built between 1650 and 1850 these are from Woodstock, Portsmouth, south of Charleston and those so close to us in such perfect state of renovation in Natchez, Mississippi and New Orleans. The architecture is Gothic, Renaissance Classical. Ships were often chartered to import the gorgeous materials and furnishings of the homes of yesterday; they were a veritable wealth of imaginative planning and certainly required an unlimited bank roll.

Mrs. Temple reminded her listeners that in such a limited time, she could but touch on this interesting subject, a subject in which all women find a special pride: the traditionally famous furnishing of our forefathers' homes.

After such delightful literary program, the hostess invited her guests into the dining room. The table with its exquisite hand-made cloth, the beautiful silver service, the flowers; narcissus, violets suggesting a breath of spring; all artistically arranged, lighted by the glow of red candles and forming a beautiful picture. Delicious sandwiches, hors d'oeuvre, salted nuts and fruit cake were enjoyed by all. The hostess asked Mrs. Greenwell to pour. The members present were: Mrs. W. M. Greenwell, Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. D. M. Moore Sr., Mrs. J. W. Murphy, Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. Geo. Temple, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. Irving Wolff, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. R. L. Wood and the hostess, Mrs. B. L. Mulhearn.

Mrs. Amiee Cook Hostess At Meeting Of A. A. U. W.

Mrs. Ben Cobb Is Guest Speaker At January Meeting

Mrs. Amiee C. Cook was hostess at the January meeting of the American Association of University Women which was held recently at the Mitchell Elementary School cafeteria in West Monroe.

Mrs. Cook, principal, and Miss Bettie Oxford, teacher, guided the members through the modern equipped school before the meeting.

Miss Carrie Dee Drew of West Monroe, branch president, announced the appointment of Mrs. Thomas F. Firnberg as historian and Mrs. H. S. Chilton as parliamentarian. She stated that a special committee had been selected to investigate types and costs of a filing cabinet for the permanent records of the Monroe branch. Members of this committee are Mrs. J. W. Musselwhite and Mrs. Roberta Guion. Miss Drew told the group that the bylaws for the local branch had been approved by the national committee on bylaws as recently submitted. She read extracts of items considered significant from the "General Director's Letter," published at headquarters of the American Association of University Women. She mentioned a new bulletin on Federal Educational Activities, including efforts to get a separate department of education. A recent ruling was noted on the income tax relationship of the cost of attending summer school, if incurred to maintain a position. Turning to the association activities in the international field, she told of observers from A. A. U. W. at the United Nations, U. N. E. S. C. O. and F. O. A. Attention was called to the 10:15 summary on the United Nations scheduled through local radio station KLIC, and to material in current issues of the "Ladies Home Journal" on sharing resources to build a better world.

Shifting from the international interests of the association to those closer home, Miss Drew read notices of the time and place for the meeting of the state and regional conferences. The Louisiana Division will meet at Baton Rouge on April 4-5. Louisiana being a part of the Southeast Regional Conference has been set for April 17-19 in Birmingham, Alabama.

Mrs. George Riser, secretary, called the roll and read the minutes. Mrs. A. L. Tatum, treasurer, announced that the dues to National had been forwarded for 40 former members and 11 new members. Mrs. Harry Lemert introduced Mrs. C. A. Oliver, an additional new member since the last meeting and Miss Kathryn Oliphant, who signed an application card for local membership at the January meeting. Miss Annis Klie, Arts chairman, reported that the creative groups in ceramics and leather tooling were still meeting. Miss Mary Clay, publicity chairman, read a communication received since the December meeting from National headquarters in Washington, commending the Monroe branch for the clipping requested on the international Grant story as handled in the Monroe press.

Mrs. Elmer Slagle, legislative chairman, told of a "Voter's Handbook" issued in Baton Rouge by a non-partizan organization. She offered copies to those interested, prior to introducing the guest speaker. Mrs. Slagle had secured as special speaker for the program, Mrs. Ben Cobb, to talk on "Legal Rights of Women in Louisiana." Mrs. Cobb being a graduate of the Tulane School of Law brought to the presentation a sound legal knowledge background. She began her talk with an explanation of the effect of the Napoleonic Code on legal rights of women in Louisiana in contrast to that of other states developed under the Anglo - Saxon common law. She made distinctions in regard to community and separate property rights of husband and wife. She spoke of the importance of the Emancipation Act of 1916 and later of the Act of 1944 in giving more legal rights to women. The technical legal rulings on applications of community property law were enlivened with specific examples by Mrs. Cobb, sometimes provoking mirth in the audience. Following her talk, Mrs. Cobb graciously permitted questions from the audience, which brought out points of special interest.

Members present were Harriet Boyle, Leota Martin, Mrs. Adelia Baylor, Mrs. Dorothy Kleppinger, Miss Marjorie Oliver, Miss Bettie Oxford, Miss Juanita Porter, Mrs. Thomas Hays, Mrs. Frances D. Hammonds, Miss May Coker, Mrs. Mabel S. Lippman, Mrs. Edith B. Rodriguez, Mrs. Elmer Slagle, Miss Kathryn Oliphant, Mrs. Sara Hollingsworth, Mrs. Virgie Catching, Mrs. Herbert Steed, Mrs. George Riser, Mrs. Harry Lemert, Miss Annis Klie, Miss Margaret Buquoi, Mrs. Mary Peavy, Miss Mary Alma Tompkins, Miss Emma Ferguson, Miss Hazel Mitchell, Mrs. A. L. Tatum, Miss Mary Clay, Miss Ola Mae Pennington, Mrs. Aimee Cook, Mrs. H. P. Smith, Miss Norma Stewart, Mrs. W. E. Guelzow, Miss Carrie Dee Drew and Mrs. H. S. Chilton.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Cook with Miss Norma Stewart, Mrs. H. S. Chilton, Mrs. Henry P. Smith, Miss Ola Mae Pennington and Mrs. W. E. Guelzow, co-hostesses.

Girl Scout News

"To be prepared: to be resourceful, to live democracy" is the slogan adopted by the National Girl Scouts convention for the next two-year period. The skills that girls acquire through Scouting, especially in camping, make for resourcefulness, and democracy comes in many ways. It is not so much what a troop does, but how it carries out its activities that is important. Every troop is a girl - size democracy and girls, leaders, council members share in the government of the local and national organizations.

One of the most effective means of accomplishing this sharing is through the girl planning board, made up of representatives of each intermediate troop. At the meeting Saturday some twenty girls made tentative plans for observing the 40th anniversary of Girl Souting in March and for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund offering to be made at that time.

At their February meeting the representatives will bring back ideas from their troops to be incorporated into final plans. Mrs. Robert Easterling, Mrs. T. B. Gregory, Mrs. W. H. Pace, Mrs. Fred Lindsay and Mrs. I. R. Bryant met with the girls. Later in the spring, their leaders tell us, the planning board will help in formulating plans for summer activities and day camp.

Brownie Scouts love to go on trips and that is one way the learn about their community. At their first meeting in January the girls of troop 34 visited a cotton compress, accompanied by Mrs. George Snellings and Mrs. George Fink. The girls are fourth graders who will "fly up" into intermediate scouting at the close of the school term. Under the leadership of Mrs. S. C. Strausser they are beginning to work on Tenderfoot requirements.

Another troop reports an interesting trip to fire station No. 1, where, you guessed it, the chief attraction was sliding down the pole. The girls report that the nice firemen also allowed them to climb up on the big shiny red fire engine to find out about its workings. Mrs. J. T. Brogan, Mrs. G. A. Coats and Mrs. Gordon Crawford are working with this troop No. 36.

Next time you girls go out to camp you may miss the hogs and cows that have been wandering around. The camp committee tells us that the fence is being put up and may even be finished by next week. That's really good news for you campers.

By the way isn't it about time to be thinking about a name for the troop camp?

The January meeting of the Faculty Wives Club of Northeast Louisiana State College, was held Thursday night at the home of President and Mrs. Lewis Slater.

The president, Mrs. Maxine Freeman, presided.

After a short business session at which it was voted to meet with a committee of interested townswomen to work for college betterment, two reports were given to better acquaint members with various college departments. The first report was on the social science division given by Mrs. Scottie Buchanan. Second, concerning the military department, by Mrs. Maxine Freeman. Some very interesting facts were brought out about each of the departments. Discussion of other departments will be held at meetings in the near future.

Mrs. Slater's home was attractively decorated with arrangements of spring flowers.

During the social hour, cokes and a variety of confections were passed among the group by the committee in charge which were: Mrs. Jimmy Boyles, Mrs. Barbara Brasher, Mrs. Scottie Buchanan, Mrs. Maxine Freeman, Mrs. Melvin Griffith, Mrs. Frances Hammond and Mrs. Emmett Foster.

Advice Given On Shrinking Woolens

"All fabrics used in tailoring garments should be thoroughly shrunk before original cutting" is the advice offered by Mrs. Mildred Swift. The agent gives the following easy way to shrink woolen materials: Straighten cut ends by tearing or pulling threads and cutting on the grain. Next, wet a sheet completely and fold lengthwise. Fold the wool fabric lengthwise, cut edges even, and place on the wet sheet, eight inches from the end.

Fold the sheet over the end of the fabric and continue folding the entire length. Cover the sheet with paper or Turkish towel to prevent the outside from drying too quickly. Let stand twelve to twenty-four hours. Open the roll. The sheet will be dry, the wool very wet, check grain lines and smooth so the material will dry grain perfect.

Mrs. Swift says that woolens shrunk in this manner need little or no pressing.

Along the lower Rio Grande valley, fossil oysters have been found 30 inches in diameter.

Monroe Garden Club Hears Lecture By Horticulturist

Mrs. Archibald Wilson Walker Speaks To Members On 'Fun In The Garden'

Mrs. Archibald Wilson Walker, of Spartanburg, N. C., noted horticulturist, spoke to members of the Monroe Civic Garden Club Monday afternoon. The meeting was open to the public and was held at the Northeast State College science building, with Mrs. John Sherrouse, Jr., president, presiding.

Preceding the lecture a short business meeting was held at which time plans for the flower show to be held in March were discussed. The flower show will also be open to the public.

Mrs. Walker gave a very interesting lecture on horticulture, choosing as her subject "Fun in the Garden." This nationally known speaker came to Monroe highly recommended by the National Federation of Garden Clubs. She has had fifteen years experience as an accredited judge of flower shows and lecturer. One of her books, "Twenty Year History" has recently been published. On the 23rd, 24th and 25th, Mrs. Walker will teach an accredited judging school in Ruston. This school is open to anyone who is interested.

Mrs. Walker brought out in her lecture the fact that interest in gardening has increased rapidly throughout the nation. This is shown by the enlarged rolls of the clubs. Men as well as women are beginning to see that gardening can furnish a most healthful and pleasant past time. She stressed the good effects of humus in the soil and suggested that watering be done from nine in the morning on while the sun is high. This should help in the control of mildew and black spot. The newest trend in horticulture is the use of hormones, which are particularly helpful in rooting and transplanting.

Following the lecture members of the club and guests were served coffee in the attractive lounge of the Home Economics department. The following ladies were present: Mrs. J. G. Taliaferro, Mrs. Ray Rhymes, Mrs. W. B. Jackson, Mrs. J. B. Thornhill, Mrs. J. R. Fuller, Mrs. Scott Hamilton, Mrs. George Weaks, Mrs. James Trousdale, Jr., Mrs. V. H. Reitzell, Mrs. J. A. Ft. Miro Chapter, D. A. R., Hears Talk On 'Cotton Kingdom'

Mrs. George Snellings Is Speaker At Meeting Held In Home Of Mrs. Henry Bernstein Jr.

Ft. Miro chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met Saturday at the lovely home of Mrs. Henry Bernstein, Jr., with Mrs. Shelby Meek, regent, presiding.

The most important business to come before the chapter was the election of delegates to the state and national conventions. For the state convention which will be held in Alexandria, Mrs. Thomas Leigh was elected to represent the chapter as delegate with Mrs. L. C. McGuire serving as alternate. Mrs. Shelby Meek will attend the state convention as regent with Mrs. J. R. Coulter as her alternate.

Four members were elected to represent Ft. Miro at the convention in Washington in April. Mrs. Shelby Meek will go as regent with Mrs. John Potts as alternate. Mrs. George Hemphill will be an alternate with Mrs. Clarence Faulk as delegate.

The highlight of the afternoon was the program by Mrs. George Snellings who talked on the "Cotton Kingdom". Mrs. Snellings gave a most complete and interesting speech on the history of cotton.

Some of the things that she told the members were that there are many kinds of cotton. They differ as to the shape of the leaves, distribution of balls, firmness of fiber adherence to seed, length, strength, tint, and texture of lint.

It is nature to most warm regions.

There are two main kinds, first, sea island with glossy block seed which is used for laces and camerico. The second kind is upland with a greenish seed tightly adhering and seldom growing more than 1 inch long. This is used for cloth, sails and tents.

In 1786 a Loyalist exile in Bahama sent some seed to a friend in Georgia to replace indigo. This kind was called Sea Island and is most successful near the ocean where the air is salt and mosit. By 1808, 236 white farmers were planting the long state staple variety which yielded 435 pounds an acre. It was a delicate fiber and had to be packed in bags. The cost of ginning was high and it had to sell for twice as much per pound in order to make a profit. This black seed long staple cotton has continued a product of restricted locality.

Early in Jamestown the green seed cotton was planted and continued convenient to cultivate for home use.

Gen. Nathaniel Green's widow met Eli Whitney on board a vessel coming to Savannah and he stayed as a guest in her home. Mrs. Green encouraged Whitney to invent a cotton gin. This invention revolutionized cotton growing. In 1790 near Columbia, S. C. Wade Hampton with 86 slaves made 600 bales of cotton worth $90,000.

It began to be copiously planted and demanded from 44 cents a pound to 20 cents. There was an endless demand for land and slaves and southern climate for cotton. The northern limits were found by trial and error. In the 1850's all along the rivers where there were levees prosperous plantations were springing up. Concordia parish in Louisiana was an example. Memphis became the cotton center around 1841. Texas was a great cotton growing state. By 1860 the Gulf of Mexico region supplied 4,000,000 bales and cotton was one half value of U. S. exports. New Orleans excelled New York on volume and value of export trade.

Pioneers in cotton land left law and culture behind. Fine houses without education or culture was the rule. There were many cotton snobs. There was lawlessness, slave stealers and gamblers. Some held to their high standards. Southerners were sociable. Many went from log cabins to mansions on cotton bales and accumulated slaves. In 1820 Greenwood Texlore, a Choctow Indian chief spent $10,000 in France for furnishings for his Mississippi mansion on cotton.

The subject of slavery was being discussed among northern and southern states and Calhoun, of Mississippi wanted to secede in 1850 if congress would not extend slavery to New Mexico. It was becoming a heated issue. Mrs. Snelling discussed at length the history of cotton up until the present time. The part of her talk about the many inventions of machinery and fertilizers for cotton was most interesting. She made very clearly the part that the government and county agent plays in the production of cotton at the present time. It was a most comprehensing and timely discussion of our south's most important crop.

The following members were present at the meeting: Mrs. W. B. Inabnet, Mrs. Duncan S. Cook, Mrs. James Brothers, Jr., Mrs. Matthew Troy, Miss Frances Flanders, Mrs. F. A. Jones, Mrs. W. B. Everett, Mrs. Harry Lemert, Mrs. Kennedy Abington, Mrs. Henry Bernstein, Sr., Mrs. Henry Bernstein, Jr., Mrs. F. D. Wilcox, Mrs. H. M. Butler, Mrs. John Coon, Mrs. W. C. NEW BOOKS ADDED

NEWS FROM THE PARISH LIBRARY

The month of January is always one of great activity in the library world. Many people turn to reading for pleasure and relaxation after the activity of the Christmas season. There are others who need to prepare papers and talks on various subjects and have put off working on them until the holidays are over. Every day since the first of the year, the Ouachita Parish Public Library has had a large circulation of books. In addition this is the time when the librarian prepares all the annual reports for the year and this keeps her very busy. In order to take care of the requests of patrons new books are constantly being added to the collection of the library. Since January 1st, 313 books have been accessioned. These books are divided between the four branches of the library, Monroe, West Monroe, the Bookmobile and Carver. Today I want to tell you about some of the new titles.

Garland Roark., author of the very popular "Wake of the Red Witch" which appeared several years ago, has a fascinating new title. It is called "Slant of the Wild Wind" and is a thrilling sea story. "Winds of Morning" by Harold L. Davis is a love story that will appeal to a large audience. "The Prodigal Brother" by McCready Huston is the story of a very respectable Philadelphia family and the consternation caused by the return of Roger, the black sheep of the family. How he solves many of the problems confronting the family makes a readable and interesting story. "Road to the Sun" by Marjorie Stoneman Douglas is another new novel well worth reading. For readers of western stories there are two new titles "Hopalong Cassidy. Trouble Shooter" by Tex Burns and "Eagle Trail" by Denver Bardwell. There are also two new titles for those who like mystery stories. They are "A Shot of Murder" by Jack Iams and "The Black Gardenia" by Elliot Paul.

A public library that provides books only for entertainment is failing in one of its most important functions, that of adult education. In order to have an informed public, it is necessary that the library furnish material on all subjects. In order to keep up the quality of our non-fiction collection a number of interesting new books have been added in the past few weeks. Biographies are very popular with a large class of readers and there are several new and exciting titles in this field. "Yankee Priest" by Father Edward Murphy is the story of his own life. It tells how he started out in Boston, but after a number of years in Louisiana, he felt like a native of our state. Father Murphy writes well and this story should be of great interest. "The Fifth Chinese Daughter" by Jade Snow Wong is an interest. "The Essential T. E. Lawrence" is a fascinating biography of one of the most enigmatic characters in modern history.

Books on history and current problems are of great value. John Thomas Flynn who wrote the startling "The Road Ahead" two years ago, has a new title called "While You Slept." In this book he shows just why we are in such a bad position in Korea. He calls the names of the people in our government whom he says have betrayed us. If his facts were not correct, he could be sued for libel, but whether you agree with him or not, the book makes startling and provocative reading. "Closing the Ring" by Winston Churchill is the fifth volume in his story of the Second World War. Those who have read the earlier volumes will want to read this one.

Books in the field of the fine arts are always popular. "The Magic Curtain" by Lawrence Langner is a story of his own life and also of the Theatre Guild movement. Those interested in the theatre will want to read this. "Dance to the Piper" by Agnes De Mille is a charming autobiography of a woman who has made a success as a dancer. "Water Color Painting For the Beginner" by Jacon Getlar Smith has a great deal of valuable instruction for the beginning painter. "The Simplified Guide to Flower Arranging" contains new information of interest to the many people who specialize in this art. One of the most beautiful books which we have acquired in a long time is "Art Treasures of the Louvre" by Rene Huyge. This book contains beautiful paintings in color and a great deal of information about the Louvre. It is a reference book and will not leave the library, but it is worth anyone's time to come down and sit an hour and read it.

A most interesting series of books which has come out one volume at a time is the "Society in America" series. The first one of this group was "The Proper Bostonians" by Cleveland Amory and was extremely popular. Since that time others have appeared. The latest one is called "The Amiable Baltimoreans" and was written by Francis Beirne. The aim of the publishers of this series is to portray the individual characteristics, to underscore the idiosyncrasies, and to trace the growth of sectional societies with special emphasis on local traditions and on the personalities who embodied them. If you have not read these books you have missed a treat.

Many people like to read books of a humorous nature, that are still true. Of this sort there are several new titles among the new books, "Protocol and the Peabodies" by Harriet Micocci is a hilarious story of adventures in chicken farming. "Moscow on the Hudson" by Mikhail Argus is an account of the Russian refugees in America. "The Salt Box" by Jan Hillard is a charming story of family life in Maine.

There are many other books in the library collection that appeal to a variety of readers. If you are not using the library, register as soon as possible and take advantage of its resources.

SEWING NEWS

Mrs. Robert Rhone called and wanted instructions on how to put in a zipper. Of course she knew the old way but she wanted that method where the seam is sewed up and then zipper put in. I told her that those instructions, with illustrations, can be found inside the paper on which the zipper is stapled when you buy it. And — here's a date — a long time ahead but you can mark it on your calendar. On Monday, February 25, I will be in a downtown department store all day to give you speed up methods in sewing. I'll have a machine there and will give demonstrations all day. Come by and see me. I'll give you the date later for demonstration on "Clothes for the Little Girl."

In the tailoring class on Tuesday, each person said they wanted to tell what they had learned — in the first two lessons. I'll pass those learnings on to you: Davis Roddy and Eleanor Terzia said they learned that it was important to press darts on the tailors ham so the edges of the darts would not show on the right side. (They made the hams using ticking and filling them with saw dust.) Mrs. Ballard found that a simple pattern was better for making the first wool suit so time could be spent mastering tailoring techniques rather than in detailed construction. After shrinking her woolen material Beulah Ewing found that by following instructions there were no wrinkles and the material did not need to be pressed. (I'll have the instructions for shrinking in this paper soon).

Elaine Breard says she is delighted to learn that the under collar in suits (and dresses made of heavy materials) should be cut on the bias with a seam in center back. Bertie Smith learned the importance of cutting garments grain perfect. Claudia Stephens and Belle Davis think the most important point they have learned from the course is that woolens should never be pressed completely dry. Mrs. DeLand found that pressing woolens lightly and with the grain helps them to keep their shape.

Evelyn Port says she found that the use of interfacings makes the difference between a well tailored garment and one that has that homemade look.

Alice Allen believes her mistakes in the past have been because she did not handle her sewing lightly, did not use the unit construction method, therefore, handling the garment too much.

Calling All Women! Don't you want to be a Gray Lady? Do you want to help those sick and aged who can no longer help themselves? Then give a few hours each week and become a volunteer worker with the Gray Ladies. You will need to take a six hour training course and you'll have the opportunity to get that on Thursday, January 24 at 8:30 or on Friday, January 25 at 8:30. Both classes will be held at the Red Cross rooms, 200 South Grand street. We serve others while we can and hope that others will serve us when we can't serve outselves.

Goodby — I will see you next Sunday in this same column.

DOROTHY DIX

Disloyal Sweetheart

Deceitful Girl Poor Risk For Matrimony

DEAR MISS DIX: Could a girl of 18 be in love with a fellow, yet continue to go out with other men and deny her disloyalty?

I am in the Marine Reserve, which takes me away for six weeks during the summer. During the winter months I go to college and can't see this girl more than four nights a week. As I don't have much money, I can't take her out to many nice places. I know definitely that she is out with other boys on the nights when I have to stay in with homework. She also goes out during the summer; yet she persists in declaring she loves me and sees no one else. I finish school next year and would like to get married then. I love this girl very much but am afraid she won't change after marriage.

TEDDY B.

DOROTHY DIX

ANSWER: The Marine Corps has an astute member in you, Teddy. Your ambition, common sense and loyalty promise well for your future.

You are faced with a dilemma to which even love cannot blind you. Before you can see a clear path to romance, I'm afraid you're due for still greater disappointment. A girl who is deceitful and disloyal is certainly not the sweetheart for you.

YOU'RE A FINE PERSON

The fact that you cannot spend much time (although four nights a week is a good dating schedule) or money on a girl would not be a drawback to the right person. Your letter indicates a boy of fine qualities, for whom any girl would be glad to wait—if she loved him. There, of course, is the crux of your difficulty. Your sweetheart certainly cannot love you, Teddy, else she would never be so faithless. You are correct in your assumption that she would not improve with marriage.

Painful as it may seem at the moment, the best advice I can give you is to break with this girl as soon as possible. You deserve much better treatment and I hope you soon find a more worthy young lady.

DEAR MISS DIX: Five weeks ago we moved into a new neighborhood, not far from a relative. This lady is a very fine person, but she comes calling before breakfast and stays a good part of the day. She includes me in all her plans, many of which are almost impossible for me to carry out. My husband has told her that we also have plans, but it does no good. Her husband did us a favor and we owe them a great deal of gratitude so I hate to hurt her feelings but she is getting on my nerves.

MINNIE

ANSWER: Your relative's intentions are probably very good; as a stranger in a new neighborhood she wants to see that you get well established, make friends and enter into local activity. She is definitely overdoing the good neighbor policy and without causing hurt feelings it is almost impossible to curb her exuberance. You might develop some interests of your own so that you're unavailable for some of her plans. When she comes calling before breakfast, tell her tactfully you have work to do and must be about it.

When you know you have chronic visitors who are about to descend at any moment, it is a good idea to keep certain jobs just for that occasion. As soon as they pop in, for instance, tackle your ironing. In this way you at least are making use of the time they spend gabbing. Or you may take up a job with which you need help. Furniture moving, curtain hanging or something of the kind. That will discourage all but the hardiest callers.

DEAR MISS DIX: We are planning a shower for a girl who is marrying a man in the service. He is stationed in Panama, where she will live. As it is impossible for her to carry household items with her, we would like our guests to give money only. Would this be proper, and how can we word it in the invitation?

MRS. W. R.

ANSWER: While your intentions are good, a money shower is not a proper or gracious form of party. Most of the friends you would invite will give money as a wedding present. Either give the shower in the regular manner, restricting the gifts to small items, or drop the whole idea.

INDEPENDENT MOTHER

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow in my early 70's, independent of my six children. I have a house with a small flat upstairs. I occupy the flat, my youngest son lives downstairs. He pays rent, but feels that I should make a will leaving him the house because he has paid rent. I think his five sisters should have a share in the property as they are all good to me. Am I right? My children all mean the same to me.

W. R.

ANSWER: Bless you for your independent spirit, and fairmindedness. I'm sure no in-law trouble has ever marred the peace of your family; if so it certainly hasn't come through you. You are absolutely right in your contention that any property you have should be divided equally among your children. Since your son would have to pay rent wherever he lived, he is certainly doing you no favor by paying it to you. In fact, renting to an outsider would probably yield a larger income in these days of high rents.

Don't let him sway your opinion; make a will (that's a legal formality everyone with even a small piece of property should observe), but provide for equal distribution of whatever you leave.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been married only six weeks. My husband and I are very happy from Monday to Friday. On Friday he begins drinking and keeps it up for the week end. I hate to see people get drunk, and his condition is causing me considerable distress.

M. C.

ANSWER: Life holds few problems more hopeless than that of a drinker who is perfectly satisfied with his condition. If a man wants to throw off the shackles of alcoholism, there are agencies to render every assistance, but the sot who wallows in his degradation is beyond help.

Appeal to your husband's better nature (which asserts itself during the week); seek the assistance of an older friend, clergyman or doctor; if possible, try psychiatric aid. One of these might work a miracle in your case, but at best it is a remote possibility.

DOROTHY DIX discusses the pros and cons of ending a marriage in leaflet D-2, "Divorce." To obtain a copy, send a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Dix, c/o this newspaper, P. O. Box 98, Times Square Station, New York 18, N. Y.

If You Want To Win Get Control Of Hand

By Oswald Jacoby

A couple of months ago one of our correspondents asked what was meant by "control" of a hand. At the time, I answered that it was hard to define the term but that you always knew what it was when you had lost it. Perhaps some more light can be shed on this subject by one of the new Autobridge hands.

Opening lead—♣ Q

West opens the queen of clubs, and dummy wins with the ace. The jack of spades is returned from dummy, but South must not take the finesse. Instead, South takes the ace and king of trumps to draw two rounds of trumps without giving up the lead.

The only reason for leading the jack of spades from dummy instead of a low trump is to encourage East to cover with the queen if he happens to be a confirmed honor-coverer.

Having drawn two rounds of trumps, South leads diamonds to force out the ace. West will eventually take the ace of diamonds and return a club, forcing South to ruff.

At this point, South has two trumps, and so does West. If South goes about his business by leading high diamonds and hearts, West can win his two trump tricks, but South will stay one jump ahead of West and will therefore keep control of the hand. Declarer makes his contract, losing only two trumps and a diamond.

If South led one of the two trumps, he would lose control. West would win with the queen of spades and force out declarer's last trump with a club. Then West would still have a trump and a good club. West would win two trumps, a diamond and a club.

South could not draw trumphs and earlier if he took the trump finesse at the second trick. West would win with the queer of spades and return a club to make South ruff. This would leave South and West with three trumps each.

South could not dra wtrumps and then knock out the ace of diamonds, for then he would be defenseless against all the clubs. If he began the diamonds without drawing trumps, West would still lead clubs, and would stay one trump ahead of South from then on.

Q—The bidding has been: East, South, West, North, 1 Heart, Double, Pass, 1 Spade, Poss?s

You, South, hold: Spades K-Q-5, Hearts 6-3, Diamonds, A-K-J-9-5-2, Clubs K-8. What do you do?

A—Bid two diamonds. You have shown a strong hand by doubling before bidding your diamonds. If your partner has a very weak hand, he will pass and you will be satisfied to get no higher.

If your partner has a fair five-card spade suit he will re-bid spades, and you can then raise. If he has some other type of strength he will be encouraged to bid again because he knows that you have a good hand.

Today's Question

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades K-Q-5, Hearts K-J-4, Diamonds A-Q-10-2, Clubs K-Q-8. What do you do?

Answer Monday

DEMOCRACY NOW FACING CRISIS

So Declares Mrs. Henry In Address At Sherrouse P.-T. A. Meeting

"There can be no innocent bystanders in this world in which we live today, if we are to preserve our democracy," said Mrs. Dewitt Henry to the Sherrouse P.-T. A. members at their regular meeting on January 16, 1952. "On January 15 the citizens of Louisiana showed their interest and participation in their state government. Even though registration was up in most of the parishes of this state, Ouachita parish registration was not increased. Our lack of interest in registration and voting indicts us as 'innocent by-standers.' "

"However," continued Mrs. Henry, "exercising the law of franchise is only the first step down the road to good citizenship." There must be sound laws enacted to be carried out by our elected officials. The legislative phase of government is of great importance and so often gets the least response. "Too frequently a bill I have asked a group to study," continued the speaker, "regardless of the type of legislation, is considered too hard a job to undertake. How difficult it is to awaken the people to the kind of legislation good government requires."

Numerous people criticize the conditions of the schools; in fact, all aspects of education are criticized. "We need this awareness of school problems," the speaker emphasized, "but I wonder how many of us have actually studied the problems of education on a long-range scale? It isn't easy to do. It means study and research, but it is a call to duty to all of us." The speaker pointed to the many reports of the legislative program prepared by the P.-T. A. and other groups, to which every citizen has access for study. "It is not a lack of information," she continued, "it is a lack of will to be informed on the part of the people."

The speaker then turned her attention to two of the items on the agenda of the state P.-T. A. legislative council. The first item would establish the office of state superintendent of education on an appointive basis. Mrs. Henry explained that we now operate under the elective type whereby the state superintendent is up for re-election each four years, which encourages participation in partisan politics. All the experts who have studied the situation in Louisiana have recommended a change to the appointive system. In a comparison of the two methods, professional surveys show that the appointive superintendent provides a better system. A superintendent thus appointed can proceed to the main business of his office — that of reducing illiteracy, in which the state of Louisiana ranks high in the nation.

Secondly on the agenda, the speaker pointed out, is the average daily attendance bill which is designed to put our schools on a sounder financial basis. Numerous difficulties arise from our present unsound plan, which is supported by tax money from several tax sources and distributed on the basis of the number of per-educable children of school age living in the community at the time of the school census. It was pointed out that there is no provision in this set-up for equalizing the migrant population or providing for those sections where a large number of school children attend private schools. Under the average daily attendance plan the health of our children would be emphasized, and the citizenry would awaken to the urgency of school attendance.

"I would strongly recommend," concluded the speaker, "that those of you who are interested, plan to organize a study group to examine these bills. Having studied these bills, you should then present your views to your senator and representatives. The hour is short, but American citizens are realizing as never before that, in this test of democracy, the responsibility is not with the professional politicians. The responsibility for good government lies with the person you see when you look into your mirror."

Before Mrs. Raymond John introduced the speaker the members were entertained by a chorus of second and third grade students directed by Miss Dorothy Bynum. These energetic youngsters presented several spirited numbers, including "Little Liza Jane," "My Raggedy Ann," and "Shortnin' Bread." At the conclusion of a short business meeting, the room count was taken and the meeting adjourned.

Her expenses were to be paid in full by the Singapore government as it was presumed officially that the attack resulted from "her spontaneous outspokenness against communism."

A HAPPY NOTE OR TWO

by J. Paul Hewitt

Although "Music hath charms to sooth the savage beast" and to lend a quieting influence to today's maddening tensions, it's been found that the greatest benefits are gotten from music when we make it ourselves. Just listening to music is a passive action. And you'll notice in so-doing that the mind and the mood are not always completely absorbed in the mood of the music.

But when you're actually playing the music yourself, you're completely engrossed in making it say what you want to express. It's the act of creating the music that makes it an effective outlet for frustrations and emotions. When you're concentrating on how to play certain notes for certain effects, you're certainly not thinking about bills to be paid, or appointments to keep. You're relaxed. And at the same time, you're enjoying a creative outlet.

So remember, music is not just for the youngsters. It's FOR EVERYBODY. And it's never too late to start learning to play your favorite instrument.

Don't miss the Ellsasser Organ Concert, February 12th, a rare musical treat for any music lover! Another great attraction early in March for Monroe — Oscar Levant. Watch for particulars.

"The Blue Veil" or the wedding veil? Which should magnificent Jane Wyman choose? Once again she deeply touches your heart as she did in Johnny Belinda. Shown with Jane Wyman is Richardson Carlson. "The Blue Veil" opens a four-day engagement at the Paramount Theatre today.

Jane Wyman In Stellar Role In 'The Blue Veil' At Paramount

Four - Day Engagement Of Dramatic Hit Opening Here Today

The remarkable story of a woman's devotion is told in "The Blue Veil," the new Wald-Krasna presentation with Jane Wyman, Charles Laughton, Joan Blondell, Richard Carlson, Agnes Moorehead, Don Taylor and Audrey Totter in starring roles.

Uniquely presented in several episodes that form an integrated whole, the plot revolves around the character Miss Wyman portrays, that of a World War I widow who loses her baby at birth and leaves the hospital facing the problem of earning her own living. In a temporary job she becomes a nursemaid for a motherless youngster, and much to her surprise she finds real happiness in being of service to the children of others. The color of her costume as a nurse maid gives significance to the title.

As the years go by she takes on one young "client" after another, and devotes herself entirely to each one's welfare, neglecting more than one chance at romance and marriage. How her lifelong career of self-sacrifice comes to a surprising and warmly dramatic climax is developed in the appealing film.

Laughton plays Miss Wyman's first employer, and Miss Blondell enacts an actress who later puts her daughter in Miss Wyman's care. Carlson portrays a tutor who falls in love with her. Miss Moorehead and Miss Totter are also cast as mothers for whom Miss Wyman works. Taylor is seen as one of her former charges who has become a prominent doctor.

Cyril Cusack, in the supporting cast is seen as a toy - shop owner. Other players include Everett Sloane, Natalie Wood, Warner Anderson, Alan Napier, Henry Morgan and John Ridgely. Curtis Bernhardt directed the offering based on the Francois Campaux story, and Raymond Hakim served as associate producer to Jerry Wald and Norman Krasna. RKO Radio distributes "The Blue Veil."

Covering the period from 1918 to the present, the film has its locale in and around New York City, and it affords Miss Wyman opportunities to display her acting talents in perhaps the most dramatic role of her career.

Times Article Discussed At Oak Ridge School Panel

W. P. Smith, agriculture instructor in the Oak Ridge High School, was leader of a panel discussion at the recent P.-T. A. meeting in the high school auditorium. The discussion was centered around Ernest O. Melby's article "Challenge to the Critics of the Schools" which appeared in the New York Times magazine. Dr. Melby is dean of the graduate school of education at New York University. Other members of the panel were Mr. E. M. Barham, Mrs. Robert Hathcox, Mrs. George Cagle, Mrs. H. J. Norris, Mrs. W. M. Nolan, and Mr. Tommie Rolfe. Members of the audience participated freely in the discussion.

The business session was opened with a piano solo by Ann Files and a vocal solo by Tommie Rolfe. Mrs. J. P. Causey, president, asked members to contact candidates for representative and senator concerning the appointment of the state superintendent of education, which is supported by the state P.-T. A.

Mrs. E. M. Barham, Mrs. H. A. Valentine, and Mrs. Bess Withorne were elected to the nominating committee for the 1952-53 officers.

'The Racket,' Famous As A Crime Drama, Now On Screen At The Joy

Robert Mitchum, Lizabeth Scott Enact Characters In Play

Pointing up the connection between crime and protection, Howard Hughes' presentation, "The Racket," stars Robert Mitchum, Lizabeth Scott and Robert Ryan in an absorbing tale of big-city intrigue.

Reversing the type of roles they usually play, Mitchum portrays a crook-hating police captain, whereas Ryan is cast as a big-time gangster. Miss Scott is seen as a cabaret singer engaged to the gangster's younger brother.

Cop Mitchum's long-standing feud with crook Ryan motivates the dramatic plot. Ryan, in association with other racketeers, is pushing the election of a shady prosecutor for a judgeship, and when a member of the gang threatens to testify before a state crime commission, Ryan has him killed.

But a patrolman identifies the killer as one of Ryan's henchmen, and Mitchum grimly resolves to bring Ryan to justice. How he does it, by adroitly playing one crooked faction against the other, forms the stirring ending of the hardhitting film. And it gives a revealing picture of the sinister operations of of organized crime in league with dishonest public officials.

William Talman, as an heroic patrolman, and Ray Collins as an assistant state's attorney, head the secondary cast. Joyce MacKenzie, Robert Hutton, Virginia Huston and William Conrad have vital roles in the Edmund Grainger production for RKO Radio, which was directed by John Cromwell. William Wister Haines and W. R. Burnett wrote the screen play, based on the broadway drama by Bartlett Cormack.

While the stage play aroused much comment at the time by reason of its frank disclosures behind the political scenes, its theme is even more appropriate today when the growth of undercover racketeering has reached nation-wide proportions. The work of Sen. Estes Kefauver's group in disclosing how crime syndicates operate, and their seeming immunity to punishment, makes "The Racket" an exceptionally timely piece of screen fare.

MINING CENTER DRAMA COMING

'Silver City,' Starring Edmond O'Brien,' At Paramount Thursday

Paramount's "Silver City," a technicolor drama about a colorful 19th century mining center and the rough and tumble fortune seekers who dug, slugged and killed to win their share of the precious ore, will open on Thursday at the Paramount Theatre. Based on a Saturday Evening Post story by Luke Short, this fast - paced adventure stars Edmond O'Brien, Yvonne De Carlo, Barry Fitzgerald, Richard Arlen, Gladys George and Laura Elliot in some bold and desperate doings played out in America's richest silver country.

Producer Nat Holt took his cast and crew to picturesque Tuolumne City in California's High Sierras for location filming. The more modern building fronts on the town's main streets were revamped to look as they did in the brawling 1870's of the story, and tons of dirt were tamped over the paving to represent the main stem of a frontier town. Other location sites were the rugged hills above town, and old-fashioned saw mill, and abandoned mine and a mountain railway.

O'Brien appears as a mining company assayer who rigs a silver holdup, later squares things in an explosive series of episodes that brings him over to the right side of the law and into the arms of a fiery frontier miss. The popular star, who has recently come in for a large share of outdoor rough stuff, was last seen in Nat Holt's production of "Warpath" as a trouble - hungry cavalryman, will shortly be seen as a railroad troubleshooter in Holt's "The Denver & Rio Grande."

Miss De Carlo, the lithe lovely who first achieved screen prominence as a snake - hipped charmer in "Salome, Where She Danced," plays the spitfire boss of a rugged mining crew. Veteran character actor Barry Fitzgerald, who won an Academy Award for his performance in "Going My Way," portrays a conniving mine owner, and Richard Arlen appears as a prospector harried by claim jumpers and a roving - eyed wife.

INSTITUTION OF FAMILY PRAYER

Msgr. Marsh States That Fine Old Custom Is Being Urged

The great campaign to re-establish the fine old custom of family prayer in every home is progressing nicely. We are now in the 2nd week. Every Catholic in the states Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida is united in prayer and work for the success of this crusade. We also invite our non-Catholic friends to join with us and put God back into our American homes, states Msgr. J. C. Marsh.

"We all realize that the home is the foundation and corner stone of the nation. Unless our homes are strong in faith and prayer we cannot stem the tide of communism. The home is the first and most important school—parents the greatest teachers. It is the home and parents who are charged with the responsibility of forming the character and destiny of the child. Parents can do nothing more valuable than to teach their little ones by word and example the importance of daily family prayer.

"We of the Catholic faith are recommending the greatest and easiest form of prayer, known as the rosary. In this prayer we think about the life of our Savior as we ask His blessed mother to help us know, love and serve her divine son better. The string of beads which form the rosary are used as so many book marks in the life of Christ which we review each time we say the rosary.

"God gave the Saviour to the world through Mary, His mother. This mother can bring Jesus, her son, back to a world which has forgotten Him. Jesus gave us His mother, to be our heavenly mother, when He was dying on the cross—Mary the dear mother of Jesus will teach us the life of her divine son in the rosary," declared Msgr. Marsh.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

Answer To Question No. 1

1. Counselors who have advised over 50,000 couples find that about half of the unhappy couples want to know how to stay together and be happy, while the other half merely want to be advised to separate. The first group really love each other and want to learn how to be happily married.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. No. Psychologist Glenn Holland has found that a teenager's head grows from the top downward. First, the forehead grows faster than the lower part of the face; then the nose begins to grow big enough to stick into other people's business, then the mouth and, lastly, the chin. This often makes the teenager's face took top heavy. Girls, by hairdo and makeup, can conceal this unevenness better than boys.

Answer To Question No. 3

3. Yes, says Dean N. Conger, Oklahoma A and M college. He thinks that reading about landscapes and buildings, etc., may develop imagination more than seeing pictures of them. Since poor readers are the very ones who benefit most by visual aids (because they don't have to read) these reduce their vocabulary. Worth thinking about. Our booklet, "How To Increase Your Vocabulary, Think Better, Spell Perfectly," with Vocabulary Test, sent at cost, 15c (coin only) plus self - addressed, stamped envelope.

'CODDIE' CONN AVERTS BLAZES

Energetic Ranger Saves Much Property Loss and Many Lives

Some careless camper may start a fire in Jackson parish but Hecardo "Coddie" Conn, assistant ranger with the Louisiana and forestry commissoin puts them out. He tips the scales at 235 pounds and when he puts that weight against a fire its out! . . . In a hurry. Coan is forty three years of age, assistant ranger who has been fighting fires in Jackson parish for eight years, having started as a mobile fire warden.

Conn belonged to the first mobile crew formed in the parish of Jackson and had to furnish his own transportation for two years. Now having a heavy tractor and plow unit with a truck to transport it, he is able to save many more acres of timber than was possible with just a hand flap and rake. On his crew at present are Hardy Wilson of Clay and Parker Crowell of Vernon.

Conn has lived in the town of Chatham all his life. He farmed most of his time before joining the commission's fire fighting forces, but has had about a year's experience in building CCC roads. He and his wife, the former Orene Robertson of Ouachita parish have five children, Floy who lives in Shreveport, Geraldine, who goes to Chatham high school, Polly and James and Ricky who all live at home.

The average person might think that the job of an assistant ranger and his crew stops when the fire is all out, but this is far from true. Time away from fires is spent in doing such chores as building roads into the forests to protect and provide better avenues of approach for fire fighting vehicles. The crews also have to maintain equipment and buildings and repair telephone lines during slack season so everything is in excellent operating condition during emergencies.

Another important job that all crewmen and assistant rangers have is contacting residents of their area about fire prevention. Knowing the community and individual problems, these men are well suited to the job of explaining the commission's program to all citizens in the parish.

Although it is impossible for his crew to plow fire lines for every farmer in the parish for pasture burning, Conn stands ready to help them in any way possible to help stop fires from spreading into the woods.

Mr. Conn stated that he did not ask residents to be careful about fires in order to save him trouble and work, but that he knew how much it means to every one living in Jackson parish when wood burns in the forests. Everyone suffers and not just the fire fighters because burned over timber means loss of money.

Reserve Commission Is Possible For Collegians

New Orleans, La., Jan. 19.—(Special)—The navy is seeking college students — Male and female — who want to earn a naval reserve commission while continuing their regular college studies.

Eighth naval district headquarters announced Friday it has a quota for 305 men in the reserve officer candidate program in the states of Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas. Applications from women candidates are not subject to quota restrictions.

To qualify, applicants must be students in good standing in freshman, sophomore or junior classes of accredited institutions and must be members of the naval reserve.

If otherwise qualified, they may join the naval reserve in order to become eligible. And, district headquarters said, no naval reservist in its five-state area will be ordered to involuntary active navy service while applications for this program are pending. Notification of selection will be made early this spring.

Final selection is made by the chief of naval personnel in Washington. Candidates chosen for the ROC program are entitled to a 1-D selective service classification, as they may be required to serve two years on active duty upon winning their naval reserve commissions.

Thanks,

Richland Parish Voters

Thanks again—and again

You have bestowed upon me a great honor—your vote has enabled me to be a candidate for Sheriff in the Second Primary—your words of encouragement give me every hope of being victorious in the end.

This first victory has not been easy. It was made possible through the efforts of my many friends who have worked so untiringly for me in each community.

The next victory is not going to be easy, either. Therefore I humbly ask you, who have worked so faithfully to continue to work; and to the other voters of the parish, I earnestly solict your vote and support.

Together, we will win. So let our motto be: "Everyone invite someone to join us."

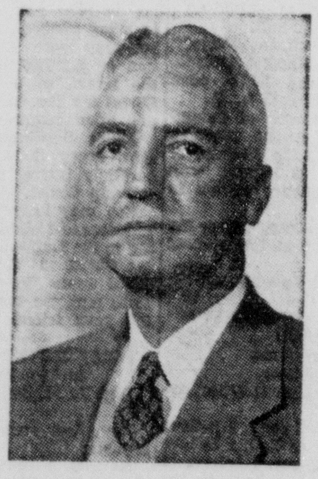
To the Voters of Ward III:

I wish to express my appreciation to each voter who saw fit to support me in the recent election. It is very gratifying to me to have received the highest number of votes. This thought serves as a further challenge to me to serve my ward to the best of my ability if I am elected.

Please accept this as an earnest solicitation of your vote in the Second Primary on February 19. Be assured that I have run and shall continue to run as an independent candidate, unassisted financially or otherwise by any group, interest, or organization.

Lawrence B. Pettit



I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to the more than twenty-one hundred people in Ward 10 who honored me with their vote for the office of Police Juror.

This was my first venture in politics and it is indeed gratifying to find that so many of my friends both old and new gave to me such an expression of confidence.

It now appears that I am eligible to enter the Second Primary and I sincerely appreciate the telephone calls and encouragement given me by many of my supporters which makes it possible for me to enter the Second Primary with a firm resolve to redouble my efforts to meet and talk with as many voters in Ward 10 as the time will allow.

I entered the race for Police Jury for one purpose and that was to be of service of the people of Ward 10 and Ouachita parish. I know that if elected I am in a position to work in harmony with all of the other members of the Police Jury and will concentrate my efforts toward the advancement of our parish.

Again I would like to thank the people who supported me in the First Primary and ask that they continue that support. I earnestly solicit the vote of all of those who, because of personal friendship with other candidates, were not in a position to vote for me in the First Primary.

I pledge to all a redoubled effort to contact all of the voters in Ward 10 and to make this race a very serious business between now and the Second Primary and with the continued support of my friends I am confident of victory in the second primary.

John E. Godfrey

Thank You Very Much

I want to take this means of thanking my many fine friends and supporters in Ouachita and Jackson Parishes for the splendid vote you gave me last Tuesday. It was a clean, hard fight, and now that it is over my only interest is to give all of the people the best possible representation in Baton Rouge. Again many, many thanks for your support and confidence.

SCHOLARSHIPS IN LAW OFFERED

Root-Tilden Donors To Award 20 Promising College Graduates

Chief Justice John B. Fournet of the Louisiana state supreme court, Walter J. Suthon, Jr., president of the State Bar Association, and William H. Fitzpatrick, editor of the New Orleans States, have accepted positions on Louisiana's state committee to select Root-Tilden scholars to attend the New York University school of law, Dean Russell D. Niles said today.

The committee has the job of picking qualified college graduates from this state who show promise of becoming outstanding lawyers in the tradition of Elihu Root and Samuel Tilden, two distinguished graduates of the university's 116 year old law school.

(Root was secretary of war, secretary of state, and an United States senator. Tilden was most famous for smashing the Tweed Ring in New York City. He later became governor of that state, and by popular vote was elected president in the Hayes-Tilden controversy.)

The scholarships, each with a value of $6,300 over a three year period, have been hailed as the American equivalent of Rhodes scholarships. Under the unique scholarship plan, 20 college graduates throughout the United States (two from each of the ten federal judicial circuits) are selected yearly to study law at New York University. There they will study in Arthur T. Vanderbilt Hall, the university's new $5,000,000 law center on Washington Square in New York City.

The committee will interview qualified candidates from the state whose applications have been accepted by the school of law. Following the interview with the state committee, successful candidates will be certified to the final selection committee composed of the chief judge of the United States court of appeals for the circuit, the chairman of the federal reserve bank, and the president of a leading educational institution in the area.

The American Bar Association Journal has predicted that the Root-Tilden scholarships will "in many respects carry more prestige and be more eagerly sought after than the internationally famous Rhodes scholarships."

"These scholars," Dean Niles declared, "will be given personal contacts with outstanding leaders in the field of industry, finance, law, and public service. They will be constantly reminded of the fact that they are being prepared not only for personal success, but also for unselfish public leadership in the area of the United States from which they come.

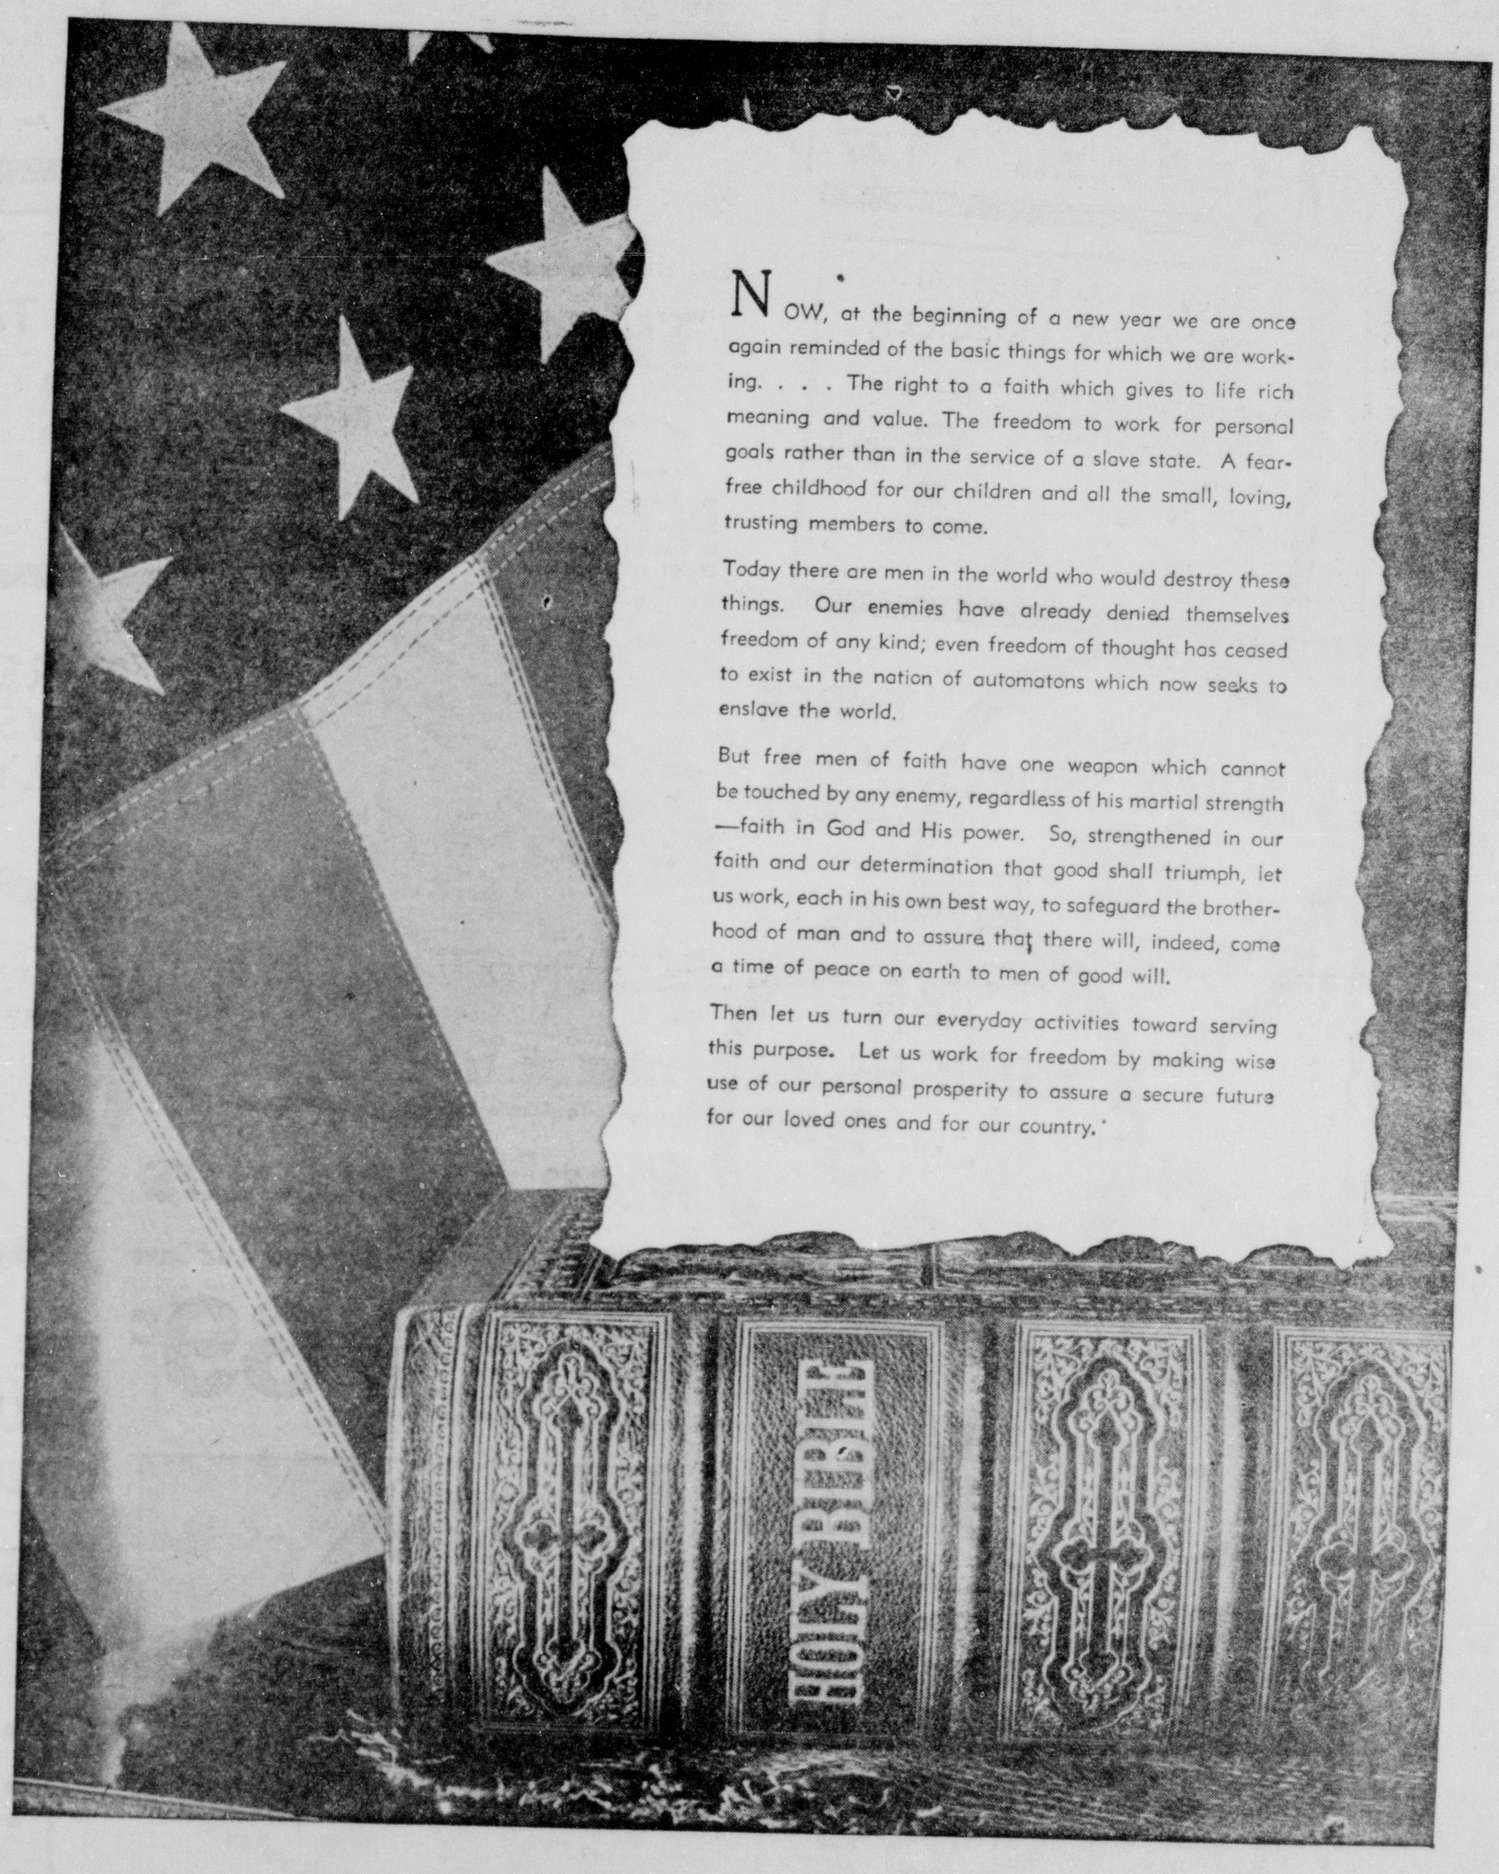
"Fear ye not..."

a message of faith to men of good will



NOW, at the beginning of a new year we are once again reminded of the basic things for which we are working. . . . The right to a faith which gives to life rich meaning and value. The freedom to work for personal goals rather than in the service of a slave state. A fear-free childhood for our children and all the small, loving, trusting members to come.

Today there are men in the world who would destroy these things. Our enemies have already denied themselves freedom of any kind; even freedom of thought has ceased to exist in the nation of automatons which now seeks to enslave the world.

But free men of faith have one weapon which cannot be touched by any enemy, regardless of his martial strength —faith in God and His power. So, strengthened in our faith and our determination that good shall triumph, let us work, each in his own best way, to safeguard the brotherhood of man and to assure that there will, indeed, come a time of peace on earth to men of good will.

Then let us turn our everyday activities toward serving this purpose. Let us work for freedom by making wise use of our personal prosperity to assure a secure future for our loved ones and for our country.

...Theatre ...rtain Call

No black cloud is such a big black cloud that it can't be pushed out of the way by the sunshine. Or so we have found out at the Little Theatre. This time last week, when casting for "The Play's the Thing" was such a headache, that cloud loomed big. Now it doesn't.

However, Little Theatre has had to rely on its fluidity of operation to help move that casting cloud. What with January apparently the busiest month of the year, and actors definitely at a premium, the rehearsal schedule for the third production of this 20th anniversary season has had to be somewhat altered. But, as we have always screamed, each new crisis at Little Theatre brings forth a new solution. So far, there's been a solution for each theatrical headache. Let's keep our fingers crossed.

The original opening date for "The Play's the Thing" has had to be changed, but our good director has asked that I do not announce the new opening yet. So all I am permitted to say at this time, is not to make any plans to attend opening night on February 6, as originally scheduled. Seems it will be a wee bit later.

Lets Talk Shop . . . in a big way. . . . Or better still "Things you ought to read if you are interested in theater dept." . . . I have on my mind today to tell you about a very good magazine. Ever read Theatre Arts magazine? Well, if you haven't, and you are interested in the theater, you should. It is a monthly and keeps you posted on the happenings in New York, the touring shows, theater in the provinces (that's what any place that isn't New York is called) and always has interesting articles by learned theater, newspaper and literary scholars. Wouldn't miss an issue myself.

Here are some interesting facts gleaned from the January issue: . . . The original-cast record album of "South Pacific" has now sold over a million copies and more than seven million conventional records and has out-grossed (in gross record sales) the Broadway box office receipts. . . . In some instances it costs as much as twenty thousand dollars for the actual recording of a show and this does not include the cost of pressing the records or advance publicity and advertising. Actually, costs sometimes run up to thirty-five thousand dollars before one album is turned out. . . . For a musical production there are usually about thirty stagehands presided over by a carpenter at $150.00 per week, a property man at $140 per week, an electrician at the same, and a curtain man at $105 per week. The wardrobe mistress receives about $100 per week, and there is one dresser for every six performers. The dressers receive about $45 per week and there is an additional $125-$150 spent for weekly cleaning of costumes. $75 per week is spent on replacing burnt out bulbs which illuminate the stage and theater.

Those are just a few of the many interesting tid-bits picked up from one issue. . . . So when one compares our Little Theatre problems, small as they may be, with those of the New York stage, it gives one a feeling of pride to know that here in Monroe we are a part of so large a way of life, a feeling of activity, a sense of responsibility to an art form so great as theater.

Is Japan in advance of U. S. A. in eugenical thinking?

From Tokyo comes this comment: "Japan fears overpopulation means lowering of the standard of the people's quality." For instance: Mental derangement in 1931 showed the ratio of 9.98 per 10,000 population. In 1937, with painful increase of population, it had risen to the ratio of 12.77 per 10,000 population . . . In the case of heredity blindness, similar figures can be shown.

Above is not the first time American leadership overseas has resulted in awakenings beyond that of our folks at home.

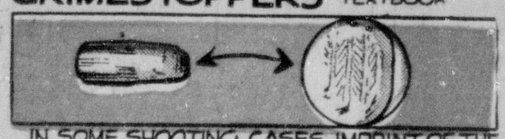
DICK TRACY

YEAH— I MIGHT AS WELL TALK.

CHESTER GOULD

CRIMESTOPPERS TEXTBOOK



IN SOME SHOOTING CASES, IMPRINT OF THE TEXTURE OF THE CLOTH WORN BY THE VICTIM HAS BEEN FOUND ON THE TIP OF THE LEAD BULLET.

Dick Tracy

THE CUSTODIAN AND I WORKED THIS THING OUT TOGETHER. WE SPLIT OUR FIRST DOUGH 8 YEARS AGO—FIVE GRAND.

GO ON, SPINNER.

IT BELONGED TO AN OLD GUY WHO WAS KILLED IN A ROBBERY. THE BURGLAR WAS CAPTURED AND THE MONEY SEIZED.

THERE WERE NO HEIRS. THE CUSTODIAN KNEW THAT, AND HE PROPOSITIONED ME TO COME FORWARD AS AN HEIR. I DID, AND WE SPLIT. AFTER THAT, I HAD HIM.

I WAS ABLE TO BLACKMAIL HIM INTO GOING ON RIFLING BOXES IN THE VAULT, BECAUSE I HAD A RECORDING OF HIS VOICE TALKING OVER BIGGER PLANS—AND HOW WE COULD PIN IT ON TRACY!

RECORD RUNNING BACKWARDS

TRACY'S SIGNATURE ON THE ACCESS SLIP WILL CLINCH IT—SEE

YOU HAVE THAT DIALOGUE ON THE BACK OF THIS SPIKE DYKE RECORD— HOW COME?

ACTUALLY, I CUT IT ON A BLANK DISC. THEN, I TRANSCRIBED A SPIKE DYKE NUMBER ON THE OTHER SIDE TO PLAY WHEN HE CAME IN. JUST TO WEAR ON HIS NERVES.

FINALLY, HE COULDN'T STAND THE PRESSURE AND SAID HE WAS GOING TO THE D. A. AND CONFESS.

THAT'S WHEN YOU KILLED HIM AND SHIPPED BOTH OF YOU OFF IN A PACKING CASE, EH?

GUESS YOU FORGOT ABOUT THIS EXPRESS RECEIPT.

AND A PATROL FOUND PARTS OF THE BURNED CRATE. THE TRUCK RENTAL MAN AND THE EXPRESS MAN BOTH IDENTIFIED YOU.

IT WAS A CLEVER SCHEME, SPINNER, BUT IT WAS A COMPLETE FLOPPEROO!

YEAH, COPPER, I LOSE.

LATER, IN THE CHIEF'S OFFICE.

SO THAT, GENTLEMEN, CLEARS UP THE THEFTS FROM THE POLICE CUSTODIAN'S VAULT. I HOPE YOU'RE SATISFIED.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. Copyright, 1952, by The Chicago Tribune

YES, TRACY. WE ARE, AND THE QUESTION OF WHERE YOU GOT THE MONEY TO BUILD YOUR HOUSE IS ANSWERED IN THESE BANK RECORDS! WE OWE YOU AN APOLOGY.

SAVE IT, SHERIFF.

IT DID SERVE ONE GOOD PURPOSE. IT BROUGHT TO LIGHT AND REMEDIED A ROTTEN SPOT IN OUR CIVIC HOUSEHOLD.

THE ONLY ROTTEN SPOT I HOPE! AND, NOW, GENTLEMEN, SHALL WE GO TO LUNCH?

I NEVER CEASE TO BE AMAZED AND SHOCKED BY WHAT A JURY OF TWELVE PRESUMABLY INTELLIGENT CITIZENS SOMETIMES DOES···

THAT "DOCTOR" LAHTEL AND HIS VICIOUS ACCOMPLICE, MISS REDDA··· FREED! ACQUITTED! HOW COULD ANY TWELVE PEOPLE SO IGNORE THE EVIDENCE?

I THINK EVEN THEIR ATTORNEYS WERE FLABBERGASTED···

WELL, WHOEVER SAID, "JUSTICE IS BLIND," SURE FORECAST THAT ONE! NOW, THEY'RE GOING TO SUE OUR PAPER FOR A MILLION, FOR "DEFAMING THEIR CHARACTERS"!

WELL, THANKS TO THAT JURY, THEY'RE LEGALLY WHITE AS SNOW···

STEVE CANYON

HEY, KATE, WHAT'S GOING ON HERE? WHAT ARE YOU DOING AT THE POLICE STATION?

NEVER MIND—TELL ME, VAN, DID YOU MAIL THE PACKAGE I GAVE YOU?

SURE! WHEN I CAME BACK TO THE LIBRARY THEY SAID YOU LEFT WITH A POLICEMAN!

MISS SUBJEKT, MAJOR CANYON WILL SOON BE HERE, THEN WE WILL QUESTION YOU!

SORRY TO BE SO LONG, CHIEF!

—WHAT'S THIS ALL ABOUT, STEVE? WHY ARE THEY HOLDING ME?

BECAUSE THERE IS A PUNCH-TAPE RECORDER IN A FALSE WALL AT THE REAR OF YOUR ELECTRIC TYPEWRITER TABLE!—WHERE SUMMER TYPED UP HER NOTES ON FAST SOIL SOLIDIFICATION!

...ALL OF IT MATERIAL WHICH WE NOW KNOW TO BE IN RUSSIAN HANDS!

HOW TERRIBLE! —AND YOU THINK I AM RESPONSIBLE?

IT'S YOUR TYPEWRITER AND YOUR TABLE WITH THE FALSE BACK AND RECORDING DEVICE!

YES—BUT—BUT—OH, I HATE TO SAY THIS...

HATE TO SAY WHAT?

SUMMER AND I DIDN'T OWN A TYPEWRITER TABLE—SO VAN KLAY WENT OUT AND GOT THAT ONE FOR US!

HEY! WHAT'S THE IDEA?

WHY, NO IDEA, VAN! —IT'S JUST THAT YOU GOT THE TABLE FROM SOME 'FRIEND' OF YOURS! IT COULD SO EASILY HAVE BEEN RIGGED BEFORE...

WHEN YOU SAID ALL THOSE THREATENING THINGS ABOUT THE AIR FORCE TO MAJOR CANYON, I THOUGHT IT WAS JUST CYNICAL COMMENT BY AN EX-G.I., BUT NOW...

®FLASH GORDON ..... by Mac Raboy and Don Moore

IN THE MARTIAN QUEEN'S BUBBLE-LIKE SCOUT-SHIP, PROPELLED BY ELECTRON-BEAMS, FLASH SURVEYS THE FLOOD THAT IS ENGULFING THE PLANET'S CAPITAL. THE CANAL IS HOPELESSLY DAMMED BY MILES OF STORM-DRIFTED, FROZEN DESERT DUNES. IT APPEARS THAT THE GREAT CITY IS DOOMED TO COMPLETE DESTRUCTION!

BUT SUDDENLY FLASH GETS AN IDEA FOR A BOLD PLAN THAT MAY TURN THE DREAD FLOOD WATERS INTO A BOON FOR MARS. "THERE'S NO TIME TO DIG A NEW CHANNEL," HE TELLS MENTA. "BUT WITH A SUPER-BOMB BLAST WE CAN FORM A CRATER THAT WILL SERVE AS A HUGE RESERVOIR ON THE EDGE OF THE CITY!"

AS THE SCOUT-SHIP POISES ON ITS REPULSOR-BEAMS NEAR THE LEVEE, FLASH DIVES INTO THE STORM-TOSSED CANAL WITH HIS SMALL BUT DEADLY LOAD, A DIRECTIONAL HYDRO-CARBON TORPEDO-BOMB!

Copr. 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

TO THE ANXIOUS DALE IT SEEMS THAT FLASH HAS BEEN UNDER THE TURBULENT WATER FOR HOURS. BUT FINALLY SHE UTTERS A CRY OF JOY AS SHE SEES FLASH EMERGE AFTER HAVING PLANTED THE MIGHTY CHARGE. "TAKE ME ABOARD!" HE SHOUTS. "THE TIME FUSE IS SET TO GO OFF IN FIVE MINUTES!"

BUT RUTHLESS QUEEN MENTA HAS NO INTENTION OF RISKING HER OWN LIFE FOR THE MAN WHO HAS SAVED HER CAPITAL. "FULL SPEED AHEAD, PILOT!" SHE COMMANDS. "THE TIME FUSE MIGHT EXPLODE WHILE WE'RE PICKING GORDON UP. HE IS EXPENDABLE, BUT THE QUEEN OF MARS IS NOT!"
